During the period ended December 31, 2018, the Company staked additional claims in New Brunswick, Canada for $3,200 which are contiguous to the Grindstone Claims.

On August 31, 2018, the Company entered into a share exchange agreement (the “Agreement”) to purchase 100% of the issued and outstanding common shares of CIN Energy Materials Inc., a Private Company, (“CIN”), which holds 100% interest in 3,846-hectare Grindstone Copper-nickel-cobalt project in an unexplored region of Northwestern New Brunswick, Canada. The acquisition has been accounted for as an asset acquisition. In consideration for the net assets acquired, the Company agreed to issued to the Shareholders of CIN a total of 12,000,000 common shares of the Company valued at $1,800,000 ($0.15 per share) pursuant to the terms of the Agreement. The purchase price of $1,900,000 was allocated to the value of exploration and evaluation assets.

On October 17, 2019, the Company announced that Diamond drilling had commenced its work on the Grindstone property.

The first phase of the drill program will focus on three high-priority target areas identified through the company's 2018 mobile magnetotelluric (MMT) airborne survey. These target areas were selected in conjunction with the company's geophysical consultant, Campbell & Walker Geophysics Ltd., and are additionally supported with coincident nickel and cobalt stream sediment and soil geochemical anomalies. Approximately 1,200 metres of drilling are expected for this first phase.

The Grindstone project was previously explored by Noranda in the early 1990s, which completed regional airborne magnetics and ground geochemical surveys before undertaking a shallow five-hole diamond drill campaign. On reinterpretation of both these historical data and the 2018 MMT airborne data, it became clear to the company that Noranda's drilling did not come close to intersecting the MMT target zones, nor did it explain the highly anomalous silt and soil geochemistry.

During the year ended March 31, 2020, management of the Company has decided not to pursue with this project and have written-off the $1,930,330 in acquisition cost to profit or loss.

Risks and Uncertainties

Mineral Property Exploration and Mining Risks

The business of mineral deposit exploration and extraction involves a high degree of risk. Few properties that are explored ultimately become producing mines. At present, none of the Company’s properties has a known commercial ore deposit. The main operating risks include: securing adequate funding to maintain and advance exploration properties; ensuring ownership of and access to mineral properties by confirmation that option agreements, claims and leases are in good standing; and obtaining permits for drilling and other exploration activities.

Global Pandemic

There was a global pandemic outbreak of COVID-19. To date, there have been a large number of temporary business closures, quarantines and a general reduction in consumer activity in Canada. The outbreak has caused companies and various governmental bodies to impose travel, gathering and other public health restrictions. While these effects are expected to be temporary, the duration of the various disruptions to businesses locally and internationally and the related financial impact cannot be reasonably estimated at this time. Similarly, the Company cannot estimate whether or to what extent this outbreak and the potential financial impact may extend. At this point, the extent to which COVID-19 will or may impact the Company is uncertain and these factors are beyond the Company's control; however, it is possible that COVID-19 may have a material adverse effect on the Company's business, results of operations and financial condition.
