Until March 31, 2022, the Company was focused on a going public transaction and securing mineral exploration projects.

General and corporate includes legal, accounting, management, marketing, rent and administration to support its operations.

Exploration costs to date have been related to keeping the properties in good standing. No active exploration programs have taken place in 2022.

In connection with the Qualifying Transaction, the Company recognized a listing expense (“Listing Expense”) in the amount of $646,347 in Q1 2022, such amount being equal to the consideration paid less the net assets acquired under the Qualifying Transaction. This is a non-cash expense.

Liquidity and Capital Resources

As at December 31, 2022, the Company had a working capital deficit of $1,200,084 (December 31, 2021 – working capital of $245,669); being defined as current assets less current liabilities. The decrease in working capital is the result of cash used for the deposits placed on the acquisition of mineral properties.

During the year ended December 31, 2022, the Company used cash of $229,080 for operating activities, received $187,968 on the reverse takeover, spent $911,668 on refundable deposits for the acquisition of two mineral exploration projects. These outflows of cash were partially offset by the cash received from financing activities of $238,373, being the balance of funds from the private placement.

The Company's monthly cash burn rate on average, which was calculated as cash spent per month in operating activities, was approximately $7,000. At its current operating level, the Company will not have sufficient funds to cover short-term operational needs. The Company expects to still operate at a loss for at minimum the next 12 months. To help with the liquidity issues, management and directors have been deferring compensation, and have in the past, settled part of these fees in exchange for common shares (to help preserve cash). As such, the Company will need additional financing for costs related to corporate operations and exploration activities. The Company is currently addressing its liquidity concerns by proactively planning future financings through the sale of equity and settling other fees and debt with the issuance of shares. The Company has been successful in the past at raising necessary funds but the timing and ability to do so will depend on the liquidity of the financial markets, economic conditions, as well as the acceptance of investors to small cap companies. There can be no guarantee that the Company will be able to secure any required financing.

The primary need for liquidity is to fund exploration programs and to maintain general corporate operations. The primary source of liquidity in the past has primarily been private financings, and loans. At times, management has deferred salaries, and/or has accepted common shares in lieu of cash to help alleviate liquidity issues.

Overall, given the working capital at December 31, 2022, the Company will not be able to meet its general operational requirements for 2023, and will require additional capital for exploration programs in 2023 and to funds operations.

The Company's management continues to hold discussions on securing financing. There are no assurances that the Company will be successful in obtaining any form of financing on a timely basis or on reasonable or acceptable terms, or at all. If the Company cannot obtain financing or otherwise improve liquidity, then the Company's treasury will be depleted and it will be required to curtail all of its operations and may be required to liquidate its assets under a formal process. Failure to continue as a going concern would require that the Company's assets and liabilities be restated on a liquidation basis, which would differ from the going concern basis.

Selected Quarterly Information

The following table summarizes the Company's financial information for the last eight quarters:

Financial Results	Q4 2022 $	Q3 2022 $	Q2 2022 $	Q1 2022 $	Q4 2021 $	Q3 2021 $	Q2 2021 $	Q1 2021 $

The Company's level of activity and expenditures during a specific quarter have been influenced by the availability of working capital, the availability of additional external financing and the status of projects and level of expenditures required to complete them. Q1 2022 net loss higher as the Listing Expense (non-cash expense) was incurred. All figures are reported in accordance with IFRS.

Proposed Transactions

As at the date of this MD&A there are no proposed transactions.

Off-balance Sheet Arrangements

As at the date of this MD&A, the Company does not have any off-balance sheet arrangements that have or are reasonably likely to have a current or future effect on the results of operations or financial condition of the Company.

Share capital

Hispania's authorized share capital consists of an unlimited number of Common Shares without par value. All the common shares have the same rights in respect of the distribution of dividends and the repayment of capital.

As at the date of this MD&A, there were 58,510,159 Common Shares outstanding, 3,493,587 warrants, and 3,000,000 stock options.

Risk Factors

The Company's business is subject to a number of risk factors which are described in the Filing Statement which was filed on SEDAR on February 16, 2022. Additional risks and uncertainties not presently known to us or that we currently consider immaterial also may impair our business and operations and cause the price of the Common Shares to decline.

If any of the noted risks actually occur, our business may be harmed and the financial condition and results of operations may suffer significantly. In that event, the trading price of the Common Shares could decline, and shareholders may lose all or part of their investment.

Critical accounting estimates

The preparation of the financial statements requires management to make judgments and estimates and form assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Such estimates primarily relate to unsettled transactions and events as at the date of the financial statements.

The areas which require management to make significant judgments, estimates and assumptions in determining carrying values include, but are not limited to:

Income, value added, withholding and other taxes

The Company is subject to income, value added, withholding and other taxes. Significant judgment is required in determining the Company's provisions for taxes. There are many transactions and calculations for which the ultimate tax determination is uncertain during the ordinary course of business. The Company recognizes liabilities for anticipated tax audit issues based on estimates of whether additional taxes will be due. The determination of the Company's income, value added, withholding and other tax liabilities requires interpretation of complex laws and regulations. The Company's interpretation of taxation law as applied to transactions and activities may not coincide with the interpretation of the tax authorities. All tax related filings are subject to government audit and potential reassessment subsequent to the financial statement reporting period. Where the final tax outcome of these matters is different from the amounts that were initially recorded, such differences will impact the tax related accruals and deferred income tax provisions in the period in which such determination is made.

Share-based compensation

Management determines costs for share-based payments using market-based valuation techniques. The fair value of the market-based and performance-based share awards are determined at the date of grant using generally accepted valuation techniques. Assumptions are made and judgment used in applying valuation techniques. These assumptions and judgments include estimating the future volatility of the stock price, expected dividend yield, future employee turnover rates and future employee stock option exercise behaviors and corporate performance. Such judgments and assumptions are inherently uncertain. Changes in these assumptions affect the fair value estimates.

Reverse takeover transaction

The determination of fair value of assets acquired, liabilities assumed, and the fair value of the purchase consideration requires the use of various estimates made by management. The classification of a transaction as a business combination or asset acquisition depends on whether the assets acquired constitute a business in accordance with the criteria set forth in IFRS 3 – Business Combination, which can be a complex judgement.

The Company bases its estimates and judgements on current facts and various other factors that it believes to be reasonable under the circumstances. The actual results experiences by the Company may differ materially and adversely from the Company's estimates and could affect future results of operations and cash flows.

Going concern assumption

The financial statement have been prepared on a going concern basis, which assumes that the Company will be able to realize its assets and discharge its liabilities in the normal course of business for the foreseeable future. The assessment of the Company's ability to source future operations and continue as a going-concern involves judgement. Estimates and assumption are continually evaluated and are based on historical experience and other factors, including expectation of future events that are believed to be reasonable under the circumstances. If the going concern assumption is not appropriate for the financial statements, then adjustments would be necessary in the carrying value of assets and liabilities.

Determination of functional currency

The Company determines the functional currency through the analysis of several indicators such as expenses and cash flow, financing activities, and frequency of transactions with the reporting entity.

Capital Management

The Company manages its capital structure and makes adjustments to it, based on the funds available to the Company, in order to support the acquisition, exploration and development of mineral properties. The capital of the Company consists of share capital, warrants, contributed surplus and options. The Board of Directors does not establish quantitative return on capital criteria for management, but rather relies on the expertise of the Company's management to sustain future development of the business.

The properties in which the Company currently has an interest are in the exploration and evaluation stage; as such the Company is dependent on external financing to fund its activities. In order to carry out the planned exploration and pay for administrative costs, the Company will spend its existing working capital and raise additional amounts as needed. The Company will continue to assess new properties and seek to acquire an interest in additional properties if it feels there is sufficient geologic or economic potential and if it has adequate financial resources to do so.

Management reviews its capital management approach on an ongoing basis and believes that this approach, given the relative size of the Company, is reasonable.

The Company is not subject to any externally imposed capital requirements.

Financial Risk Factors

The Company's risk exposures and the impact on the Company's financial instruments are summarized below.

Credit risk

The Company's credit risk is primarily attributable to cash and cash equivalents. The Company has no significant concentration of credit risk arising from operations. Cash is held with reputable financial institutions, from which management believes the risk of loss to be remote. Management believes that the credit risk concentration with respect to these items is remote.

Liquidity risk

Liquidity risk is the risk that the Company will not meet its financial obligations as they fall due. The Company monitors its risk by monitoring the maturity dates of its existing debt and other payables. The Company's policy is to ensure that it will always have sufficient cash to allow it to meet its liabilities when they become due, under both normal and stressed conditions, without incurring unacceptable losses or risking damage to the Company's reputation.

As at December 31, 2022 the Company had a cash balance of $93,425 to settle current liabilities of $620,980. The continuing operations of the Company are dependent upon its ability to obtain adequate financing and to commence profitable operations in the future.

Market risk

(a) Interest rate risk

The Company has cash balances and no long-term debt. The Company's current policy is to invest excess cash in investment-grade short-term deposit certificates issued by its banking institutions. The Company periodically monitors the investments it makes and is satisfied with the credit ratings of its banks. The Company considers this risk to be minimal.

(b) Currency risk

Currency risk is the risk that the fair value of, or future cash flows from, the Company's financial instruments will fluctuate because of changes in foreign exchange rates. The Company's subsidiary in Spain is exposed to foreign exchange risk related to variation in exchange rates between Canadian dollars and Euros. The Company has not entered into any foreign currency contracts or other instruments to mitigate this risk.

(c) Price risk

The Company is exposed to price risk with respect to commodity prices. The Company closely monitors commodity prices to determine the appropriate course of action to be taken by the Company. Price risk is remote since the Company is not a producing entity.

Fair value of financial assets and liabilities

A number of the Company's accounting policies and disclosures require the measurement of fair values, for both financial and non-financial assets and liabilities.

When measuring the fair value of an asset or liability, the Company uses observable market data, as much as possible. Fair values are classified into different levels in a hierarchy based on the inputs used in the valuation techniques, as follows:

Level 1: quoted prices (without adjustments) in active markets for identical assets or liabilities.

Level 2: inputs other than Level 1 quoted prices, that are observable for the asset or liability, either directly (i.e. as prices) or indirectly (i.e. derived from prices).

Level 3: inputs, for assets or liabilities, that are not based on observable market information (non-observable inputs).

As at December 31, 2022, the fair values of Company's financial instruments approximate their carrying values, given their short-term nature.
