

Parvis Invest and MREX College Team Up to Shape the Next Generation of Real Estate Investors

Vancouver, British Columbia--(Newsfile Corp. - February 26, 2026) - Parvis Invest Inc. \(TSXV: PVIS\) ("Parvis" or the "Company"), a technology-driven private investment platform focused on democratizing access to institutional-quality real estate and alternative investments, is pleased to announce its commitment as a major sponsor of MREX College \("MREX"\), an educational institution specializing in multi-residential real estate investment training. This partnership reflects Parvis' ongoing commitment to financial education and professional development within Canada's real estate investment sector.

Investing in Education

As a major sponsor, Parvis will support MREX's educational initiatives aimed at training the next generation of responsible and informed real estate investors. The collaboration will also enable Parvis to leverage MREX's educational services to further enhance real estate investor knowledge in financial structuring and real estate investment strategies.

"Financial education is fundamental to a healthy and transparent market," said David Michaud, Founder and CEO of Parvis. "By supporting MREX College, we are helping elevate competency standards across the real estate industry. Better-informed investors make stronger decisions, benefiting the broader ecosystem. This collaboration aligns closely with our vision of innovation, accessibility, and inclusion within private markets."

"From the beginning, MREX's mission has been to democratize access to real estate investing," said Audrey Girard, Director of MREX College. "While we have traditionally focused on hands-on property owners and active real estate investors, we recognize that not everyone wants to invest directly in real estate operations. Parvis offers an avenue to educate and empower a broader range of investors."

This sponsorship will help expand MREX's educational offerings and extend the reach of its programs, increasing access to high-quality real estate investment education for Canadians nationwide.
