

BluMetric Announces Appointment of Interim CEO

Ottawa – 30 November 2017 – BluMetric Environmental Inc. (TSX-V: BLM) is pleased to announce that it has appointed Mr. Dan Scroggins, currently serving as BluMetric’s Senior Vice President, Research & Innovation, as interim CEO of the Company, subject to TSX-V approval. His appointment is effective immediately upon the close of Roger Woeller’s term as CEO on November 30, 2017, as previously reported (press release dated 31 October 2017). Roger Woeller will continue to be a director of the Company and assist with succession planning and ongoing search for a permanent CEO (first announced 23 May 2017).

Dan Scroggins has 35 years of experience in the water and wastewater treatment field, having participated in hundreds of projects around the globe, serving for many years in senior client-facing and technology implementation roles. An innovator in his field, he has been involved in almost every aspect of the business, from the formation of several companies to the creation of a national sales organization, the development and introduction of new products to a national market, and the consolidation of several companies into one integrated entity. His management experience includes taking a small entrepreneurial company from its inception to IPO on NASDAQ. At BluMetric, along with his research responsibilities, he was key in streamlining the operation and increasing the profitability of Water Systems by focusing on strengths, reducing costs, and expanding the product offering. Dan has a solid understanding of the industry, exceptional interpersonal skills and a depth of scientific knowledge.

“Through the challenges and changes of the past several years, BluMetric’s senior management team has responded consistently, proving itself both strong and capable and well able to support the Company’s business,” said Jane E. Pagel, BluMetric’s Chair. “We are pleased with the appointment of Dan Scroggins as interim CEO and have every confidence in the senior management team to continue to move the Company forward during this transition period. At the same time, the Company is thankful for Roger’s past leadership, and fortunate to have his ongoing input and support on the Board as we strengthen the foundation for future growth.”
