The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series T4 units of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

Invesco Select Canadian Equity Fund - Series T4

1. Sales charges

You may pay a sales charge when you buy Series T4 units of the Fund.

Sales charge option	What you pay		How it works
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	0% to 5% of the amount you pay	$0 to $50 on every $1,000 you pay	■ You and your representative decide on the rate ■ The initial sales charge is deducted from the amount you pay. It goes to your representative's firm as a commission

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of December 31, 2022, the expenses of Series T4 were 2.52% of the value of this series. This equals $25.20 for every $1,000 invested.

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.50% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.50% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

¹ 1.00% after seven years. ² 1.00% after four years.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series T4 units of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the units you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

Low	Low to medium	Medium	Medium to high	High

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco American Franchise Fund (formerly, Invesco U.S. Companies Fund) - Series A

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series A units of the Fund have performed over the past 10 years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series A units of the Fund performed in each of the past 10 years. The Fund dropped in value in three of the 10 years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

† On October 15, 2020, the Fund's investment strategies and portfolio advisor were changed. The performance of the Fund for the period prior to this date would have been different had the current investment strategies and portfolio advisor been in place during that period.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series A units of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	16.6%	June 30, 2020	Your investment would rise to $1,166
Worst return	-18.3%	June 30, 2022	Your investment would drop to $817

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series A units of the Fund 10 years ago now has $2,883. This works out to an annual compound return of 11.17%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want strong capital growth over the long term
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Want a U.S. equity investment
- Are comfortable with medium risk

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series I units of the Fund have performed over the past 10 years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series I units of the Fund performed in each of the past 10 years. The Fund dropped in value in one of the 10 years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

† On October 15, 2020, the Fund's investment strategies and portfolio advisor were changed. The performance of the Fund for the period prior to this date would have been different had the current investment strategies and portfolio advisor been in place during that period.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series I units of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	17.3%	June 30, 2020	Your investment would rise to $1,173
Worst return	-17.8%	June 30, 2022	Your investment would drop to $822

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series I units of the Fund 10 years ago now has $3,771. This works out to an annual compound return of 14.19%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want strong capital growth over the long term
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Want a U.S. equity investment
- Are comfortable with medium risk

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series I units of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

There are no sales charges for Series I units of the Fund.

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns. Investors negotiate and pay the management and advisory fees for Series I units directly. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays all operating expenses.

As of December 31, 2022, the expenses of Series I were 0.06% of the value of this series. This equals $0.60 for every $1,000 invested.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series O units of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Investment advisory fee	For individual investors, your representative's firm may charge you an annual investment advisory fee, which you negotiate with your representative. This fee is paid by redeeming some of the units you own of the Fund. If one of the 0.25%, 0.50%, 0.75% or 1.00% purchase options is selected, the investment advisory fee is that which is reflected by the purchase option. The purchase option selected is determined by you and your representative. We have also included a purchase option that does not provide for a default fee if you and your representative wish to negotiate a different fee. If that purchase option is selected, then we will collect a fee of up to 1.50% on your behalf and remit that fee to your representative's firm. If that purchase option is selected and we do not receive any documentation, then we will not redeem units and we will assume that your representative's firm will either (i) not charge a fee or (ii) charge you directly. No investment advisory fee is payable by institutional investors.
Management and advisory fee	Investors pay the management and advisory fee for Series O units directly. The annual management and advisory fees are as follows: 0.85% on the first $500,000 of assets; 0.75% on assets between $500,000 and $1,000,000; 0.70% on assets between $1,000,000 and $5,000,000; and 0.65% on assets in excess of $5,000,000. Certain institutional and ultra-high net worth investors may negotiate the management and advisory fees for Series O units.

We will switch your Series A shares into Series P shares of the Fund, which have a lower annual management and advisory fee, once your investment amount in related Invesco accounts meets the Private Investor Series eligibility requirement of $100,000. The annual fee decrease from Series A to Series P is 0.15%. If you no longer meet the eligibility requirements for Series P, we will switch your shares back into Series A shares. See "Purchases, switches and redemptions" in the Fund's simplified prospectus and speak to your representative for additional details.

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this series of the Fund as Medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco American Franchise Class (formerly, Invesco U.S. Companies Class) - Series F

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series F shares of the Fund have performed over the past 10 years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series F shares of the Fund performed in each of the past 10 years. The Fund dropped in value in two of the 10 years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

† On October 15, 2020, the Fund's investment strategies and portfolio advisor were changed. The performance of the Fund for the period prior to this date would have been different had the current investment strategies and portfolio advisor been in place during that period.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series F shares of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	17.0%	June 30, 2020	Your investment would rise to $1,170
Worst return	-18.0%	June 30, 2022	Your investment would drop to $820

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series F shares of the Fund 10 years ago now has $3,319. This works out to an annual compound return of 12.75%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want strong capital growth over the long term
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Want a U.S. equity investment
- Are comfortable with medium risk

Investors who wish to gain exposure to foreign investments but wish to minimize exposure to fluctuations in foreign currency relative to the Canadian dollar should invest in Series FH securities of this Fund.

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series F shares of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

There are no sales charges for Series F shares of the Fund.

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series F were 1.09% of the value of this series. This equals $10.90 for every $1,000 invested.

More about the trailing commission

Invesco Canada Ltd. does not pay trailing commissions in respect of Series F shares of the Fund.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series F shares of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Investment advisory fee	If you hold this series of shares in a fee-based account at your representative's firm, your representative's firm may charge you an investment advisory fee which you negotiate with your representative. Invesco Canada Ltd. may have an arrangement with your representative's firm to collect the investment advisory fee (plus any applicable taxes) from you on behalf of your representative's firm. Where such an arrangement exists, the maximum annual investment advisory fee that we will collect from you is 1.50% (excluding applicable taxes) and the fee (plus any applicable taxes) is collected by redeeming some of the shares you own of the Fund.
Fees for services	If you hold this series of shares in an account with a dealer that does not make a suitability determination, such as a discount broker, your dealer may charge you fees when you buy, switch, and/or redeem such shares. You should confirm these fees with your dealer.

We will switch your Series H shares into Series PH shares of the Fund, which have a lower annual management and advisory fee, once your investment amount in related Invesco accounts meets the Private Investor Series eligibility requirement of $100,000, and if your Series H shares are held within a registered account. The annual fee decrease from Series H to Series PH is 0.15%. If you no longer meet the eligibility requirements for Series PH, we will switch your shares back into Series H shares. See "Purchases, switches and redemptions" in the Fund's simplified prospectus and speak to your representative for additional details.

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.50% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.50% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

¹ 1.00% after seven years. ² 1.00% after four years.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series H shares of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the shares you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this series of the Fund as Medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

Low	Low to medium	Medium	Medium to high	High

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco American Franchise Class (formerly, Invesco U.S. Companies Class) - Series P

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series P shares of the Fund have performed over the past 10 years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series P shares of the Fund performed in each of the past 10 years. The Fund dropped in value in two of the 10 years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

† On October 15, 2020, the Fund's investment strategies and portfolio advisor were changed. The performance of the Fund for the period prior to this date would have been different had the current investment strategies and portfolio advisor been in place during that period.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series P shares of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	16.7%	June 30, 2020	Your investment would rise to $1,167
Worst return	-18.3%	June 30, 2022	Your investment would drop to $817

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series P shares of the Fund 10 years ago now has $3,012. This works out to an annual compound return of 11.66%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want strong capital growth over the long term
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Want a U.S. equity investment
- Are comfortable with medium risk

Investors who wish to gain exposure to foreign investments but wish to minimize exposure to fluctuations in foreign currency relative to the Canadian dollar should invest in Series PH securities of this Fund.

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series P shares of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

Invesco American Franchise Class (formerly, Invesco U.S. Companies Class) - Series P

1. Sales charges

You may pay a sales charge when you buy Series P shares of the Fund.

Sales charge option	What you pay		How it works
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	0% to 5% of the amount you pay	$0 to $50 on every $1,000 you pay	■ You and your representative decide on the rate ■ The initial sales charge is deducted from the amount you pay. It goes to your representative's firm as a commission

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series P were 2.26% of the value of this series. This equals $22.60 for every $1,000 invested.

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.50% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.50% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

¹ 1.00% after seven years. ² 1.00% after four years.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series P shares of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the shares you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this series of the Fund as Medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco American Franchise Class (formerly, Invesco U.S. Companies Class) - Series PTFU

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series PTFU shares of the Fund have performed over the past eight years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted and are in U.S. dollars. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series PTFU shares of the Fund performed in each of the past eight years. The Fund dropped in value in three of the eight years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

† On October 15, 2020, the Fund's investment strategies and portfolio advisor were changed. The performance of the Fund for the period prior to this date would have been different had the current investment strategies and portfolio advisor been in place during that period.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series PTFU shares of the Fund in a three-month period over the past eight years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	21.3%	June 30, 2020	Your investment would rise to $1,213
Worst return	-20.4%	June 30, 2022	Your investment would drop to $796

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series PTFU shares of the Fund at its inception now has $1,935. This works out to an annual compound return of 8.06%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want strong capital growth over the long term
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Want a U.S. equity investment
- Are comfortable with medium risk

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series PTFU shares of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

There are no sales charges for Series PTFU shares of the Fund.

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series PTFU were 0.85% of the value of this series. This equals $8.50 for every $1,000 invested.

What does the Fund invest in?

The Fund invests in the securities of Invesco FTSE RAFI US 1000 ETF, an exchange-traded fund that invests in common shares and other equity securities of companies located in the U.S. Rather than weighting companies by market capitalization, the FTSE RAFI US 1000 Index™ weights companies using four fundamental factors of company size, dividends, cash flow, sales and book value. As the underlying fund is traded in U.S. dollars, the Fund also seeks to reduce the risk of exchange-rate fluctuations between the U.S. and Canadian dollars by hedging its U.S.-dollar exposure.

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series F units of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Investment advisory fee	If you hold this series of units in a fee-based account at your representative's firm, your representative's firm may charge you an investment advisory fee which you negotiate with your representative. Invesco Canada Ltd. may have an arrangement with your representative's firm to collect the investment advisory fee (plus any applicable taxes) from you on behalf of your representative's firm. Where such an arrangement exists, the maximum annual investment advisory fee that we will collect from you is 1.50% (excluding applicable taxes) and the fee (plus any applicable taxes) is collected by redeeming some of the units you own of the Fund.
Fees for services	If you hold this series of units in an account with a dealer that does not make a suitability determination, such as a discount broker, your dealer may charge you fees when you buy, switch, and/or redeem such units. You should confirm these fees with your dealer.

What if I change my mind?

Under securities law in some provinces and territories, you have the right to:

- withdraw from an agreement to buy mutual funds within two business days after you receive a simplified prospectus or Fund Facts document,

or

- cancel your purchase within 48 hours after you receive confirmation of the purchase.

In some provinces and territories, you also have the right to cancel a purchase or, in some jurisdictions, claim damages if the simplified prospectus, Fund Facts document or financial statements contain a misrepresentation. You must act within the time limit set by the securities legislation in your province or territory.

For more information, see the securities law of your province or territory or ask a lawyer.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Medium to high.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

Low	Low to medium	Medium	Medium to high	High

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco Main Street U.S. Small Cap Class - Series A

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series A shares of the Fund have performed over the past 10 years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series A shares of the Fund performed in each of the past 10 years. The Fund dropped in value in two of the 10 years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

† On October 15, 2020, the Fund's investment strategies and portfolio advisor were changed. The performance of the Fund for the period prior to this date would have been different had the current investment strategies and portfolio advisor been in place during that period.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series A shares of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	20.6%	June 30, 2020	Your investment would rise to $1,206
Worst return	-28.9%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $711

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series A shares of the Fund 10 years ago now has $1,872. This works out to an annual compound return of 6.47%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want strong capital growth over the long term
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Want a specialty U.S. equity investment
- Are comfortable with medium to high risk

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series A shares of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

Invesco Main Street U.S. Small Cap Class - Series A

1. Sales charges

You may pay a sales charge when you buy Series A shares of the Fund.

Sales charge option	What you pay		How it works
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	0% to 5% of the amount you pay	$0 to $50 on every $1,000 you pay	■ You and your representative decide on the rate ■ The initial sales charge is deducted from the amount you pay. It goes to your representative's firm as a commission

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series A were 3.00% of the value of this series. This equals $30.00 for every $1,000 invested.

We will switch your Series A shares into Series P shares of the Fund, which have a lower annual management and advisory fee, once your investment amount in related Invesco accounts meets the Private Investor Series eligibility requirement of $100,000. The annual fee decrease from Series A to Series P is 0.15%. If you no longer meet the eligibility requirements for Series P, we will switch your shares back into Series A shares. See "Purchases, switches and redemptions" in the Fund's simplified prospectus and speak to your representative for additional details.

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.50% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.50% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

¹ 1.00% after seven years. ² 1.00% after four years.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series A shares of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the shares you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series I shares of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

There are no sales charges for Series I shares of the Fund.

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns. Investors negotiate and pay the management and advisory fees for Series I shares directly. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays all operating expenses.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series I were 0.06% of the value of this series. This equals $0.60 for every $1,000 invested.

More about the trailing commission

Invesco Canada Ltd. does not pay trailing commissions in respect of Series I shares of the Fund.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series I shares of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Management and advisory fee	Investors negotiate and pay the management and advisory fee for Series I shares directly. The maximum annual management and advisory fee that may be payable to Invesco Canada Ltd. is 2.00%.

What if I change my mind?

Under securities law in some provinces and territories, you have the right to:

- withdraw from an agreement to buy mutual funds within two business days after you receive a simplified prospectus or Fund Facts document,

or

- cancel your purchase within 48 hours after you receive confirmation of the purchase.

In some provinces and territories, you also have the right to cancel a purchase or, in some jurisdictions, claim damages if the simplified prospectus, Fund Facts document or financial statements contain a misrepresentation. You must act within the time limit set by the securities legislation in your province or territory.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Medium to high.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

Low	Low to medium	Medium	Medium to high	High

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco Main Street U.S. Small Cap Class - Series P

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series P shares of the Fund have performed over the past nine years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series P shares of the Fund performed in each of the past nine years. The Fund dropped in value in two of the nine years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

† On October 15, 2020, the Fund's investment strategies and portfolio advisor were changed. The performance of the Fund for the period prior to this date would have been different had the current investment strategies and portfolio advisor been in place during that period.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series P shares of the Fund in a three-month period over the past nine years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	20.8%	June 30, 2020	Your investment would rise to $1,208
Worst return	-28.8%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $712

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series P shares of the Fund at its inception now has $1,835. This works out to an annual compound return of 6.57%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want strong capital growth over the long term
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Want a specialty U.S. equity investment
- Are comfortable with medium to high risk

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

1. Sales charges

You may pay a sales charge when you buy Series P shares of the Fund.

Sales charge option	What you pay		How it works
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	0% to 5% of the amount you pay	$0 to $50 on every $1,000 you pay	■ You and your representative decide on the rate ■ The initial sales charge is deducted from the amount you pay. It goes to your representative's firm as a commission

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series P were 2.43% of the value of this series. This equals $24.30 for every $1,000 invested.

	Annual rate (as a % of the Fund's value)

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.50% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.50% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

¹ 1.00% after seven years. ² 1.00% after four years.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series P shares of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the shares you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series PTFU shares of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

There are no sales charges for Series PTFU shares of the Fund.

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series PTFU were 1.02% of the value of this series. This equals $10.20 for every $1,000 invested.

More about the trailing commission

Invesco Canada Ltd. does not pay trailing commissions in respect of Series PTFU shares of the Fund.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series PTFU shares of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Investment advisory fee	You may buy and hold this series of shares in an account where you pay for advice directly to your representative's firm (in whatever form agreed to between you and your representative's firm), rather than through Invesco Canada Ltd. (either directly or indirectly). Your representative's firm may charge you an investment advisory fee which you negotiate with your representative.

What if I change my mind?

Under securities law in some provinces and territories, you have the right to:

- withdraw from an agreement to buy mutual funds within two business days after you receive a simplified prospectus or Fund Facts document,

or

- cancel your purchase within 48 hours after you receive confirmation of the purchase.

In some provinces and territories, you also have the right to cancel a purchase or, in some jurisdictions, claim damages if the simplified prospectus, Fund Facts document or financial statements contain a misrepresentation. You must act within the time limit set by the securities legislation in your province or territory.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Medium to high.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco NASDAQ 100 Index ETF Fund - Series A

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series A units of the Fund have performed over the past year. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series A units of the Fund performed in the past year. The Fund's value dropped that year. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series A units of the Fund in a three-month period over the past year. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	20.0%	March 31, 2023	Your investment would rise to $1,200
Worst return	-22.9%	June 30, 2022	Your investment would drop to $771

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series A units of the Fund at its inception now has $1,021. This works out to an annual compound return of 0.89%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want capital growth over the long term
- Want exposure to U.S. equities
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Are comfortable with medium to high risk
- Want exposure to foreign equity securities but wish to minimize exposure to fluctuations in foreign currency relative to the Canadian dollar

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Invesco NASDAQ 100 Index ETF Fund - Series A

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of December 31, 2022, the expenses of Series A were 1.50% of the value of this series. This equals $15.00 for every $1,000 invested.

	Annual rate (as a % of the Fund's value)

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate of the trailing commission for this series of the Fund is 1.00% of the value of your investment each year. This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series A units of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the units you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

- Want exposure to foreign equity securities but wish to minimize exposure to fluctuations in foreign currency relative to the Canadian dollar

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series PTF units of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

There are no sales charges for Series PTF units of the Fund.

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of December 31, 2022, the expenses of Series PTF were 0.36% of the value of this series. This equals $3.60 for every $1,000 invested.

More about the trailing commission

Invesco Canada Ltd. does not pay trailing commissions in respect of Series PTF units of the Fund.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series PTF units of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Investment advisory fee	You may buy and hold this series of units in an account where you pay for advice directly to your representative's firm (in whatever form agreed to between you and your representative's firm), rather than through Invesco Canada Ltd. (either directly or indirectly). Your representative's firm may charge you an investment advisory fee which you negotiate with your representative.

What if I change my mind?

Under securities law in some provinces and territories, you have the right to:

- withdraw from an agreement to buy mutual funds within two business days after you receive a simplified prospectus or Fund Facts document,

or

- cancel your purchase within 48 hours after you receive confirmation of the purchase.

In some provinces and territories, you also have the right to cancel a purchase or, in some jurisdictions, claim damages if the simplified prospectus, Fund Facts document or financial statements contain a misrepresentation. You must act within the time limit set by the securities legislation in your province or territory.

For more information, see the securities law of your province or territory or ask a lawyer.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

Low	Low to medium	Medium	Medium to high	High

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco S&P 500 ESG Index ETF Fund - Series A

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series A units of the Fund have performed over the past year. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series A units of the Fund performed in the past year. The Fund's value dropped that year. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series A units of the Fund in a three-month period over the past year. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	8.0%	December 31, 2022	Your investment would rise to $1,080
Worst return	-16.2%	June 30, 2022	Your investment would drop to $838

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series A units of the Fund at its inception now has $1,121. This works out to an annual compound return of 5.01%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Are seeking long-term capital growth
- Want a well-diversified core U.S. equity investment with an environmental, social and governance (ESG) mandate
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Are comfortable with medium risk
- Want exposure to foreign equity securities but wish to minimize exposure to fluctuations in foreign currency relative to the Canadian dollar

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate of the trailing commission for this series of the Fund is 1.00% of the value of your investment each year. This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series A units of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the units you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

What if I change my mind?

Under securities law in some provinces and territories, you have the right to:

- withdraw from an agreement to buy mutual funds within two business days after you receive a simplified prospectus or Fund Facts document,

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series PTF units of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

There are no sales charges for Series PTF units of the Fund.

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of December 31, 2022, the expenses of Series PTF were 0.33% of the value of this series. This equals $3.30 for every $1,000 invested.

More about the trailing commission

Invesco Canada Ltd. does not pay trailing commissions in respect of Series PTF units of the Fund.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series PTF units of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Investment advisory fee	You may buy and hold this series of units in an account where you pay for advice directly to your representative's firm (in whatever form agreed to between you and your representative's firm), rather than through Invesco Canada Ltd. (either directly or indirectly). Your representative's firm may charge you an investment advisory fee which you negotiate with your representative.

What if I change my mind?

Under securities law in some provinces and territories, you have the right to:

- withdraw from an agreement to buy mutual funds within two business days after you receive a simplified prospectus or Fund Facts document,

What does the Fund invest in?

The Fund invests in the securities of Invesco FTSE RAFI US 1000 ETF, Invesco FTSE RAFI Developed Markets ex-U.S. ETF and Invesco FTSE RAFI Emerging Markets ETF, which are exchange-traded funds that, together, invest primarily in companies diversified globally across developed and emerging markets. Rather than weighting companies by market capitalization, the underlying indices weight companies using four fundamental factors of company size, dividends, cash flow, sales and book value. As the underlying funds hold securities that are priced in foreign currencies, the Fund also seeks to reduce the risk of exchange-rate fluctuations between foreign currencies and the Canadian dollar by hedging the foreign-currency exposure.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco FTSE RAFI Global+ ETF Fund - Series A

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series A units of the Fund have performed over the past 10 years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series A units of the Fund performed in each of the past 10 years. The Fund dropped in value in four of the 10 years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series A units of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	20.4%	January 31, 2021	Your investment would rise to $1,204
Worst return	-27.3%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $727

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series A units of the Fund 10 years ago now has $1,645. This works out to an annual compound return of 5.11%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want capital growth over the long term
- Want a well-diversified core global equity investment
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Are comfortable with medium risk
- Want exposure to foreign equity securities but wish to minimize exposure to fluctuations in foreign currency relative to the Canadian dollar

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate of the trailing commission for this series of the Fund is 1.00% of the value of your investment each year. This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series A units of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the units you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series F4 units of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Investment advisory fee	If you hold this series of units in a fee-based account at your representative's firm, your representative's firm may charge you an investment advisory fee which you negotiate with your representative. Invesco Canada Ltd. may have an arrangement with your representative's firm to collect the investment advisory fee (plus any applicable taxes) from you on behalf of your representative's firm. Where such an arrangement exists, the maximum annual investment advisory fee that we will collect from you is 1.50% (excluding applicable taxes) and the fee (plus any applicable taxes) is collected by redeeming some of the units you own of the Fund.
Fees for services	If you hold this series of units in an account with a dealer that does not make a suitability determination, such as a discount broker, your dealer may charge you fees when you buy, switch, and/or redeem such units. You should confirm these fees with your dealer.

What if I change my mind?

Under securities law in some provinces and territories, you have the right to:

- withdraw from an agreement to buy mutual funds within two business days after you receive a simplified prospectus or Fund Facts document,

or

- cancel your purchase within 48 hours after you receive confirmation of the purchase.

In some provinces and territories, you also have the right to cancel a purchase or, in some jurisdictions, claim damages if the simplified prospectus, Fund Facts document or financial statements contain a misrepresentation. You must act within the time limit set by the securities legislation in your province or territory.

For more information, see the securities law of your province or territory or ask a lawyer.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco Global Companies Fund - Series A

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series A units of the Fund have performed over the past 10 years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series A units of the Fund performed in each of the past 10 years. The Fund dropped in value in two of the 10 years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series A units of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	15.3%	June 30, 2020	Your investment would rise to $1,153
Worst return	-20.5%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $795

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series A units of the Fund 10 years ago now has $2,015. This works out to an annual compound return of 7.26%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want strong capital growth over the long term
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Want a diversified global equity investment
- Are comfortable with medium risk

Investors who wish to gain exposure to foreign investments but wish to minimize exposure to fluctuations in foreign currency relative to the Canadian dollar should invest in Series H securities of this Fund.

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series A units of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

You may pay a sales charge when you buy Series A units of the Fund.

Sales charge option	What you pay		How it works
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	0% to 5% of the amount you pay	$0 to $50 on every $1,000 you pay	■ You and your representative decide on the rate ■ The initial sales charge is deducted from the amount you pay. It goes to your representative's firm as a commission

Invesco Global Companies Fund - Series A

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of December 31, 2022, the expenses of Series A were 2.72% of the value of this series. This equals $27.20 for every $1,000 invested.

	Annual rate (as a % of the Fund's value)
Management expense ratio (MER) This is the total of the Fund's management fee (which includes the trailing commission) and operating expenses.	2.70%
Trading expense ratio (TER) This is the Fund's trading costs.	0.02%
Fund expenses	2.72%

We will switch your Series A units into Series P units of the Fund, which have a lower annual management and advisory fee, once your investment amount in related Invesco accounts meets the Private Investor Series eligibility requirement of $100,000. The annual fee decrease from Series A to Series P is 0.15%. If you no longer meet the eligibility requirements for Series P, we will switch your units back into Series A units. See "Purchases, switches and redemptions" in the Fund's simplified prospectus and speak to your representative for additional details.

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.50% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.50% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

¹ 1.00% after seven years. ² 1.00% after four years.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series A units of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the units you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

You may pay a sales charge when you buy Series H units of the Fund.

Sales charge option	What you pay		How it works
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	0% to 5% of the amount you pay	$0 to $50 on every $1,000 you pay	■ You and your representative decide on the rate ■ The initial sales charge is deducted from the amount you pay. It goes to your representative's firm as a commission

Invesco Global Companies Fund - Series H

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of December 31, 2022, the expenses of Series H were 2.52% of the value of this series. This equals $25.20 for every $1,000 invested.

	Annual rate (as a % of the Fund's value)
Management expense ratio (MER) This is the total of the Fund's management fee (which includes the trailing commission) and operating expenses.	2.50%
Trading expense ratio (TER) This is the Fund's trading costs.	0.02%
Fund expenses	2.52%

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.50% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.50% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

¹ 1.00% after seven years. ² 1.00% after four years.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series H units of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the units you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco Global Companies Fund - Series I

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series I units of the Fund have performed over the past 10 years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series I units of the Fund performed in each of the past 10 years. The Fund dropped in value in two of the 10 years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series I units of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	16.1%	June 30, 2020	Your investment would rise to $1,161
Worst return	-20.0%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $800

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series I units of the Fund 10 years ago now has $2,620. This works out to an annual compound return of 10.11%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want strong capital growth over the long term
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Want a diversified global equity investment
- Are comfortable with medium risk

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series I units of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

There are no sales charges for Series I units of the Fund.

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns. Investors negotiate and pay the management and advisory fees for Series I units directly. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays all operating expenses.

As of December 31, 2022, the expenses of Series I were 0.02% of the value of this series. This equals $0.20 for every $1,000 invested.

Fee	What you pay
Investment advisory fee	For individual investors, your representative's firm may charge you an annual investment advisory fee, which you negotiate with your representative. This fee is paid by redeeming some of the units you own of the Fund. If one of the 0.25%, 0.50%, 0.75% or 1.00% purchase options is selected, the investment advisory fee is that which is reflected by the purchase option. The purchase option selected is determined by you and your representative. We have also included a purchase option that does not provide for a default fee if you and your representative wish to negotiate a different fee. If that purchase option is selected, then we will collect a fee of up to 1.50% on your behalf and remit that fee to your representative's firm. If that purchase option is selected and we do not receive any documentation, then we will not redeem units and we will assume that your representative's firm will either (i) not charge a fee or (ii) charge you directly. No investment advisory fee is payable by institutional investors.
Management and advisory fee	Investors pay the management and advisory fee for Series O units directly. The annual management and advisory fees are as follows: 0.85% on the first $500,000 of assets; 0.75% on assets between $500,000 and $1,000,000; 0.70% on assets between $1,000,000 and $5,000,000; and 0.65% on assets in excess of $5,000,000. Certain institutional and ultra-high net worth investors may negotiate the management and advisory fees for Series O units.

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series P units of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

You may pay a sales charge when you buy Series P units of the Fund.

Sales charge option	What you pay		How it works
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	0% to 5% of the amount you pay	$0 to $50 on every $1,000 you pay	■ You and your representative decide on the rate ■ The initial sales charge is deducted from the amount you pay. It goes to your representative's firm as a commission

Invesco Global Companies Fund - Series P

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of December 31, 2022, the expenses of Series P were 2.21% of the value of this series. This equals $22.10 for every $1,000 invested.

	Annual rate (as a % of the Fund's value)
Management expense ratio (MER) This is the total of the Fund's management fee (which includes the trailing commission) and operating expenses.	2.19%
Trading expense ratio (TER) This is the Fund's trading costs.	0.02%
Fund expenses	2.21%

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.50% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.50% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

¹ 1.00% after seven years. ² 1.00% after four years.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series P units of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the units you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco Global Companies Fund - Series PTF

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series PTF units of the Fund have performed over the past eight years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series PTF units of the Fund performed in each of the past eight years. The Fund dropped in value in two of the eight years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series PTF units of the Fund in a three-month period over the past eight years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	15.8%	June 30, 2020	Your investment would rise to $1,158
Worst return	-20.2%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $798

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series PTF units of the Fund at its inception now has $1,866. This works out to an annual compound return of 7.60%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want strong capital growth over the long term
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Want a diversified global equity investment
- Are comfortable with medium risk

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series PTF units of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate of the trailing commission for this series of the Fund is 0.30% of the value of your investment each year. This equals $3.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series SC units of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the units you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

Low	Low to medium	Medium	Medium to high	High

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco Global Companies Fund - Series T4

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series T4 units of the Fund have performed over the past 10 years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series T4 units of the Fund performed in each of the past 10 years. The Fund dropped in value in two of the 10 years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series T4 units of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	15.4%	June 30, 2020	Your investment would rise to $1,154
Worst return	-20.5%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $795

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series T4 units of the Fund 10 years ago now has $2,062. This works out to an annual compound return of 7.51%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want strong capital growth over the long term
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Want a diversified global equity investment
- Are comfortable with medium risk

Series T4 is appropriate for investors who want to receive regular distributions. The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series T4 units of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

You may pay a sales charge when you buy Series T4 units of the Fund.

Sales charge option	What you pay		How it works
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	0% to 5% of the amount you pay	$0 to $50 on every $1,000 you pay	■ You and your representative decide on the rate ■ The initial sales charge is deducted from the amount you pay. It goes to your representative's firm as a commission

Invesco Global Companies Fund - Series T4

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of December 31, 2022, the expenses of Series T4 were 2.43% of the value of this series. This equals $24.30 for every $1,000 invested.

	Annual rate (as a % of the Fund's value)

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want strong capital growth over the long term
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Want a diversified global equity investment
- Are comfortable with medium risk

Series T8 is appropriate for investors who want to receive regular distributions. The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series T8 units of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

You may pay a sales charge when you buy Series T8 units of the Fund.

Sales charge option	What you pay		How it works
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	0% to 5% of the amount you pay	$0 to $50 on every $1,000 you pay	■ You and your representative decide on the rate ■ The initial sales charge is deducted from the amount you pay. It goes to your representative's firm as a commission

Invesco Global Companies Fund - Series T8

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of December 31, 2022, the expenses of Series T8 were 2.43% of the value of this series. This equals $24.30 for every $1,000 invested.

	Annual rate (as a % of the Fund's value)
Management expense ratio (MER) This is the total of the Fund's management fee (which includes the trailing commission) and operating expenses.	2.41%
Trading expense ratio (TER) This is the Fund's trading costs.	0.02%
Fund expenses	2.43%

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.50% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.50% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

¹ 1.00% after seven years. ² 1.00% after four years.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series T8 units of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the units you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

What if I change my mind?

Under securities law in some provinces and territories, you have the right to:

- withdraw from an agreement to buy mutual funds within two business days after you receive a simplified prospectus or Fund Facts document,

or

- cancel your purchase within 48 hours after you receive confirmation of the purchase.

In some provinces and territories, you also have the right to cancel a purchase or, in some jurisdictions, claim damages if the simplified prospectus, Fund Facts document or financial statements contain a misrepresentation. You must act within the time limit set by the securities legislation in your province or territory.

For more information, see the securities law of your province or territory or ask a lawyer.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco Global Dividend Class - Series A

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series A shares of the Fund have performed over the past 10 years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series A shares of the Fund performed in each of the past 10 years. The Fund dropped in value in two of the 10 years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series A shares of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	15.9%	June 30, 2020	Your investment would rise to $1,159
Worst return	-21.4%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $786

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series A shares of the Fund 10 years ago now has $1,805. This works out to an annual compound return of 6.08%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want capital growth over the long term
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Are comfortable with medium risk

Investors who wish to gain exposure to foreign investments but wish to minimize exposure to fluctuations in foreign currency relative to the Canadian dollar should invest in Series H securities of this Fund.

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	18.8%	June 30, 2020	Your investment would rise to $1,188
Worst return	-27.1%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $729

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series FH shares of the Fund at its inception now has $1,326. This works out to an annual compound return of 4.12%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want capital growth over the long term
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Are comfortable with medium risk
- Want to gain exposure to foreign equity securities but wish to minimize exposure to fluctuations in foreign currency relative to the Canadian dollar

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series FH shares of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

There are no sales charges for Series FH shares of the Fund.

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series FH were 0.87% of the value of this series. This equals $8.70 for every $1,000 invested.

Invesco Canada Ltd. does not pay trailing commissions in respect of Series FH shares of the Fund.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series FH shares of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Investment advisory fee	If you hold this series of shares in a fee-based account at your representative's firm, your representative's firm may charge you an investment advisory fee which you negotiate with your representative. Invesco Canada Ltd. may have an arrangement with your representative's firm to collect the investment advisory fee (plus any applicable taxes) from you on behalf of your representative's firm. Where such an arrangement exists, the maximum annual investment advisory fee that we will collect from you is 1.50% (excluding applicable taxes) and the fee (plus any applicable taxes) is collected by redeeming some of the shares you own of the Fund.
Fees for services	If you hold this series of shares in an account with a dealer that does not make a suitability determination, such as a discount broker, your dealer may charge you fees when you buy, switch, and/or redeem such shares. You should confirm these fees with your dealer.

What if I change my mind?

Under securities law in some provinces and territories, you have the right to:

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

Low	Low to medium	Medium	Medium to high	High

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series H shares of the Fund at its inception now has $1,210. This works out to an annual compound return of 2.76%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want capital growth over the long term
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Are comfortable with medium risk
- Want to gain exposure to foreign equity securities but wish to minimize exposure to fluctuations in foreign currency relative to the Canadian dollar

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series H shares of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

You may pay a sales charge when you buy Series H shares of the Fund.

Sales charge option	What you pay		How it works
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	0% to 5% of the amount you pay	$0 to $50 on every $1,000 you pay	■ You and your representative decide on the rate ■ The initial sales charge is deducted from the amount you pay. It goes to your representative's firm as a commission

Invesco Global Dividend Class - Series H

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series H were 2.82% of the value of this series. This equals $28.20 for every $1,000 invested.

	Annual rate (as a % of the Fund's value)
Management expense ratio (MER) This is the total of the Fund's management fee (which includes the trailing commission) and operating expenses.	2.80%
Trading expense ratio (TER) This is the Fund's trading costs.	0.02%
Fund expenses	2.82%

We will switch your Series H shares into Series PH shares of the Fund, which have a lower annual management and advisory fee, once your investment amount in related Invesco accounts meets the Private Investor Series eligibility requirement of $100,000, and if your Series H shares are held within a registered account. The annual fee decrease from Series H to Series PH is 0.15%. If you no longer meet the eligibility requirements for Series PH, we will switch your shares back into Series H shares. See "Purchases, switches and redemptions" in the Fund's simplified prospectus and speak to your representative for additional details.

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.50% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.50% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

¹ 1.00% after seven years. ² 1.00% after four years.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series H shares of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the shares you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco Global Dividend Class - Series P

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series P shares of the Fund have performed over the past 10 years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series P shares of the Fund performed in each of the past 10 years. The Fund dropped in value in two of the 10 years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series P shares of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	16.0%	June 30, 2020	Your investment would rise to $1,160
Worst return	-21.4%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $786

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series P shares of the Fund 10 years ago now has $1,878. This works out to an annual compound return of 6.51%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want capital growth over the long term
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Are comfortable with medium risk

Investors who wish to gain exposure to foreign investments but wish to minimize exposure to fluctuations in foreign currency relative to the Canadian dollar should invest in Series PH securities of this Fund.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco Global Dividend Class - Series PT4

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series PT4 shares of the Fund have performed over the past nine years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series PT4 shares of the Fund performed in each of the past nine years. The Fund dropped in value in two of the nine years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series PT4 shares of the Fund in a three-month period over the past nine years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	16.0%	June 30, 2020	Your investment would rise to $1,160
Worst return	-21.3%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $787

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series PT4 shares of the Fund at its inception now has $1,741. This works out to an annual compound return of 5.99%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want capital growth over the long term
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Are comfortable with medium risk

Series PT4 is appropriate for investors who want to receive regular distributions.

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series PT4 shares of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

You may pay a sales charge when you buy Series PT4 shares of the Fund.

Sales charge option	What you pay		How it works
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	0% to 5% of the amount you pay	$0 to $50 on every $1,000 you pay	■ You and your representative decide on the rate ■ The initial sales charge is deducted from the amount you pay. It goes to your representative's firm as a commission

Invesco Global Dividend Class - Series PT4

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series PT4 were 2.19% of the value of this series. This equals $21.90 for every $1,000 invested.

	Annual rate (as a % of the Fund's value)
Management expense ratio (MER) This is the total of the Fund's management fee (which includes the trailing commission) and operating expenses.	2.17%
Trading expense ratio (TER) This is the Fund's trading costs.	0.02%

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.50% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.50% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

¹ 1.00% after seven years. ² 1.00% after four years.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series PT4 shares of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the shares you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

What if I change my mind?

Under securities law in some provinces and territories, you have the right to:

- withdraw from an agreement to buy mutual funds within two business days after you receive a simplified prospectus or Fund Facts document,

or

- cancel your purchase within 48 hours after you receive confirmation of the purchase.

In some provinces and territories, you also have the right to cancel a purchase or, in some jurisdictions, claim damages if the simplified prospectus, Fund Facts document or financial statements contain a misrepresentation. You must act within the time limit set by the securities legislation in your province or territory.

For more information, see the securities law of your province or territory or ask a lawyer.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

Low	Low to medium	Medium	Medium to high	High

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco Global Dividend Class - Series PTF

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series PTF shares of the Fund have performed over the past eight years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series PTF shares of the Fund performed in each of the past eight years. The Fund dropped in value in two of the eight years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series PTF shares of the Fund in a three-month period over the past eight years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	16.4%	June 30, 2020	Your investment would rise to $1,164
Worst return	-21.1%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $789

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series PTF shares of the Fund at its inception now has $1,763. This works out to an annual compound return of 6.88%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want capital growth over the long term
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Are comfortable with medium risk

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series PTF shares of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

There are no sales charges for Series PTF shares of the Fund.

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series PTF were 0.88% of the value of this series. This equals $8.80 for every $1,000 invested.

More about the trailing commission

Invesco Canada Ltd. does not pay trailing commissions in respect of Series PTF shares of the Fund.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series PTF shares of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Investment advisory fee	You may buy and hold this series of shares in an account where you pay for advice directly to your representative's firm (in whatever form agreed to between you and your representative's firm), rather than through Invesco Canada Ltd. (either directly or indirectly). Your representative's firm may charge you an investment advisory fee which you negotiate with your representative.

What if I change my mind?

Under securities law in some provinces and territories, you have the right to:

- withdraw from an agreement to buy mutual funds within two business days after you receive a simplified prospectus or Fund Facts document,

or

- cancel your purchase within 48 hours after you receive confirmation of the purchase.

In some provinces and territories, you also have the right to cancel a purchase or, in some jurisdictions, claim damages if the simplified prospectus, Fund Facts document or financial statements contain a misrepresentation. You must act within the time limit set by the securities legislation in your province or territory.

For more information, see the securities law of your province or territory or ask a lawyer.

We will switch your Series T4 shares into Series PT4 shares of the Fund, which have a lower annual management and advisory fee, once your investment amount in related Invesco accounts meets the Private Investor Series eligibility requirement of $100,000. The annual fee decrease from Series T4 to Series PT4 is 0.15%. If you no longer meet the eligibility requirements for Series PT4, we will switch your shares back into Series T4 shares. See "Purchases, switches and redemptions" in the Fund's simplified prospectus and speak to your representative for additional details.

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.50% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.50% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

¹ 1.00% after seven years. ² 1.00% after four years.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series T4 shares of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the shares you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.50% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.50% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

¹ 1.00% after seven years. ² 1.00% after four years.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series T6 shares of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the shares you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco Global Dividend Class - Series T8

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series T8 shares of the Fund have performed over the past 10 years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series T8 shares of the Fund performed in each of the past 10 years. The Fund dropped in value in two of the 10 years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series T8 shares of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	15.9%	June 30, 2020	Your investment would rise to $1,159
Worst return	-21.4%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $786

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series T8 shares of the Fund 10 years ago now has $1,811. This works out to an annual compound return of 6.12%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want capital growth over the long term
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Are comfortable with medium risk

Series T8 is appropriate for investors who want to receive regular distributions.

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series T8 shares of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

You may pay a sales charge when you buy Series T8 shares of the Fund.

Sales charge option	What you pay		How it works
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	0% to 5% of the amount you pay	$0 to $50 on every $1,000 you pay	■ You and your representative decide on the rate ■ The initial sales charge is deducted from the amount you pay. It goes to your representative's firm as a commission

Invesco Global Dividend Class - Series T8

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series T8 were 2.60% of the value of this series. This equals $26.00 for every $1,000 invested.

	Annual rate (as a % of the Fund's value)
Management expense ratio (MER) This is the total of the Fund's management fee (which includes the trailing commission) and operating expenses.	2.58%
Trading expense ratio (TER) This is the Fund's trading costs.	0.02%
Fund expenses	2.60%

We will switch your Series T8 shares into Series PT8 shares of the Fund, which have a lower annual management and advisory fee, once your investment amount in related Invesco accounts meets the Private Investor Series eligibility requirement of $100,000. The annual fee decrease from Series T8 to Series PT8 is 0.15%. If you no longer meet the eligibility requirements for Series PT8, we will switch your shares back into Series T8 shares. See "Purchases, switches and redemptions" in the Fund's simplified prospectus and speak to your representative for additional details.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series F units of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Investment advisory fee	If you hold this series of units in a fee-based account at your representative's firm, your representative's firm may charge you an investment advisory fee which you negotiate with your representative. Invesco Canada Ltd. may have an arrangement with your representative's firm to collect the investment advisory fee (plus any applicable taxes) from you on behalf of your representative's firm. Where such an arrangement exists, the maximum annual investment advisory fee that we will collect from you is 1.50% (excluding applicable taxes) and the fee (plus any applicable taxes) is collected by redeeming some of the units you own of the Fund.
Fees for services	If you hold this series of units in an account with a dealer that does not make a suitability determination, such as a discount broker, your dealer may charge you fees when you buy, switch, and/or redeem such units. You should confirm these fees with your dealer.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Medium.

Because this is a new fund, the risk rating is only an estimate by Invesco Canada Ltd. Generally, the rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Average return

This section shows the value and annual compounded rate of return of a hypothetical $1,000 investment in Series A units of the Fund. However, this information is not available because the Fund has not yet completed 12 consecutive months.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want capital growth and income over the long term
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Want a diversified global equity investment with monthly income distributions
- Are comfortable with medium risk

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series A units of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

You may pay a sales charge when you buy Series A units of the Fund.

2. Fund expenses (continued)

We will switch your Series A units into Series P units of the Fund, which have a lower annual management and advisory fee, once your investment amount in related Invesco accounts meets the Private Investor Series eligibility requirement of $100,000. The annual fee decrease from Series A to Series P is 0.15%. If you no longer meet the eligibility requirements for Series P, we will switch your units back into Series A units. See "Purchases, switches and redemptions" in the Fund's simplified prospectus and speak to your representative for additional details.

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate of the trailing commission for this series of the Fund is 1.00% of the value of your investment each year. This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series A units of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the units you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

What if I change my mind?

Under securities law in some provinces and territories, you have the right to:

- withdraw from an agreement to buy mutual funds within two business days after you receive a simplified prospectus or Fund Facts document,

or

- cancel your purchase within 48 hours after you receive confirmation of the purchase.

In some provinces and territories, you also have the right to cancel a purchase or, in some jurisdictions, claim damages if the simplified prospectus, Fund Facts document or financial statements contain a misrepresentation. How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Medium.

Because this is a new fund, the risk rating is only an estimate by Invesco Canada Ltd. Generally, the rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

This section shows the value and annual compounded rate of return of a hypothetical $1,000 investment in Series P units of the Fund. However, this information is not available because the Fund has not yet completed 12 consecutive months.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want capital growth and income over the long term
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Want a diversified global equity investment with monthly income distributions
- Are comfortable with medium risk

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series P units of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

You may pay a sales charge when you buy Series P units of the Fund.

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate of the trailing commission for this series of the Fund is 1.00% of the value of your investment each year. This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

Invesco Global Equity Income Advantage Fund - Series P

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series P units of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the units you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

What if I change my mind?

Invesco Global Opportunities Class - Series A

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series A shares of the Fund have performed over the past 10 years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series A shares of the Fund performed in each of the past 10 years. The Fund dropped in value in three of the 10 years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

† On May 3, 2021, the Fund's investment objectives were changed and on October 15, 2020, the Fund's investment strategies and portfolio advisor were changed. The performance of the Fund for the period prior to these dates would have been different had the new investment strategies, portfolio advisor and investment objectives been in place during that period.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series A shares of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	24.3%	January 31, 2021	Your investment would rise to $1,243
Worst return	-31.0%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $690

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series A shares of the Fund 10 years ago now has $1,122. This works out to an annual compound return of 1.16%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want strong capital growth over the long term
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Want a small and mid-cap capitalization global equity investment
- Are comfortable with medium risk

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

We will switch your Series A shares into Series P shares of the Fund, which have a lower annual management and advisory fee, once your investment amount in related Invesco accounts meets the Private Investor Series eligibility requirement of $100,000. The annual fee decrease from Series A to Series P is 0.15%. If you no longer meet the eligibility requirements for Series P, we will switch your shares back into Series A shares. See "Purchases, switches and redemptions" in the Fund's simplified prospectus and speak to your representative for additional details.

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.50% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.50% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

¹ 1.00% after seven years. ² 1.00% after four years.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series A shares of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the shares you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco Global Opportunities Class - Series F

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series F shares of the Fund have performed over the past 10 years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series F shares of the Fund performed in each of the past 10 years. The Fund dropped in value in two of the 10 years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

† On May 3, 2021, the Fund's investment objectives were changed and on October 15, 2020, the Fund's investment strategies and portfolio advisor were changed. The performance of the Fund for the period prior to these dates would have been different had the new investment strategies, portfolio advisor and investment objectives been in place during that period.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series F shares of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	24.8%	January 31, 2021	Your investment would rise to $1,248
Worst return	-30.8%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $692

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series F shares of the Fund 10 years ago now has $1,308. This works out to an annual compound return of 2.72%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want strong capital growth over the long term
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Want a small and mid-cap capitalization global equity investment
- Are comfortable with medium risk

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series F shares of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

There are no sales charges for Series F shares of the Fund.

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series F were 1.15% of the value of this series. This equals $11.50 for every $1,000 invested.

More about the trailing commission

Invesco Canada Ltd. does not pay trailing commissions in respect of Series F shares of the Fund.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series F shares of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Investment advisory fee	If you hold this series of shares in a fee-based account at your representative's firm, your representative's firm may charge you an investment advisory fee which you negotiate with your representative. Invesco Canada Ltd. may have an arrangement with your representative's firm to collect the investment advisory fee (plus any applicable taxes) from you on behalf of your representative's firm. Where such an arrangement exists, the maximum annual investment advisory fee that we will collect from you is 1.50% (excluding applicable taxes) and the fee (plus any applicable taxes) is collected by redeeming some of the shares you own of the Fund.
Fees for services	If you hold this series of shares in an account with a dealer that does not make a suitability determination, such as a discount broker, your dealer may charge you fees when you buy, switch, and/or redeem such shares. You should confirm these fees with your dealer.

Invesco Global Opportunities Class - Series P

1. Sales charges

You may pay a sales charge when you buy Series P shares of the Fund.

Sales charge option	What you pay		How it works
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	0% to 5% of the amount you pay	$0 to $50 on every $1,000 you pay	■ You and your representative decide on the rate ■ The initial sales charge is deducted from the amount you pay. It goes to your representative's firm as a commission

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series P were 2.45% of the value of this series. This equals $24.50 for every $1,000 invested.

	Annual rate (as a % of the Fund's value)
Management expense ratio (MER) This is the total of the Fund's management fee (which includes the trailing commission) and operating expenses.	2.40%
Trading expense ratio (TER) This is the Fund's trading costs.	0.05%
Fund expenses	2.45%

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.50% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.50% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

¹ 1.00% after seven years. ² 1.00% after four years.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series P shares of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the shares you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

Low	Low to medium	Medium	Medium to high	High

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco Global Opportunities Class - Series PTF

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series PTF shares of the Fund have performed over the past eight years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series PTF shares of the Fund performed in each of the past eight years. The Fund dropped in value in two of the eight years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

† On May 3, 2021, the Fund's investment objectives were changed and on October 15, 2020, the Fund's investment strategies and portfolio advisor were changed. The performance of the Fund for the period prior to these dates would have been different had the new investment strategies, portfolio advisor and investment objectives been in place during that period.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series PTF shares of the Fund in a three-month period over the past eight years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	24.9%	January 31, 2021	Your investment would rise to $1,249
Worst return	-30.7%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $693

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series PTF shares of the Fund at its inception now has $1,029. This works out to an annual compound return of 0.34%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want strong capital growth over the long term
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Want a small and mid-cap capitalization global equity investment
- Are comfortable with medium risk

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series PTF shares of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

There are no sales charges for Series PTF shares of the Fund.

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series PTF were 1.03% of the value of this series. This equals $10.30 for every $1,000 invested.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series A units of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

Invesco Global Select Equity Fund - Series A

1. Sales charges

You may pay a sales charge when you buy Series A units of the Fund.

Sales charge option	What you pay		How it works
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	0% to 5% of the amount you pay	$0 to $50 on every $1,000 you pay	■ You and your representative decide on the rate ■ The initial sales charge is deducted from the amount you pay. It goes to your representative's firm as a commission

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of December 31, 2022, the expenses of Series A were 2.74% of the value of this series. This equals $27.40 for every $1,000 invested.

	Annual rate (as a % of the Fund's value)
Management expense ratio (MER) This is the total of the Fund's management fee (which includes the trailing commission) and operating expenses.	2.54%
Trading expense ratio (TER) This is the Fund's trading costs.	0.20%
Fund expenses	2.74%

We will switch your Series A units into Series P units of the Fund, which have a lower annual management and advisory fee, once your investment amount in related Invesco accounts meets the Private Investor Series eligibility requirement of $100,000. The annual fee decrease from Series A to Series P is 0.15%. If you no longer meet the eligibility requirements for Series P, we will switch your units back into Series A units. See "Purchases, switches and redemptions" in the Fund's simplified prospectus and speak to your representative for additional details.

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.50% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.50% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

¹ 1.00% after seven years. ² 1.00% after four years.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series A units of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the units you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco Global Select Equity Fund - Series F

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series F units of the Fund have performed over the past 10 years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series F units of the Fund performed in each of the past 10 years. The Fund dropped in value in two of the 10 years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

† On November 28, 2022 and March 1, 2021, the Fund's investment strategies were changed. The performance of this Fund for the period prior to this date would have been different had the current investment strategies been in place during that period.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series F units of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	16.6%	March 31, 2019	Your investment would rise to $1,166
Worst return	-20.7%	March 31, 2022	Your investment would drop to $793

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series F units of the Fund 10 years ago now has $2,157. This works out to an annual compound return of 7.99%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want strong capital growth over the long term
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Want a global equity investment
- Are comfortable with medium risk

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

More about the trailing commission

Invesco Canada Ltd. does not pay trailing commissions in respect of Series F units of the Fund.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series F units of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Investment advisory fee	If you hold this series of units in a fee-based account at your representative's firm, your representative's firm may charge you an investment advisory fee which you negotiate with your representative. Invesco Canada Ltd. may have an arrangement with your representative's firm to collect the investment advisory fee (plus any applicable taxes) from you on behalf of your representative's firm. Where such an arrangement exists, the maximum annual investment advisory fee that we will collect from you is 1.50% (excluding applicable taxes) and the fee (plus any applicable taxes) is collected by redeeming some of the units you own of the Fund.
Fees for services	If you hold this series of units in an account with a dealer that does not make a suitability determination, such as a discount broker, your dealer may charge you fees when you buy, switch, and/or redeem such units. You should confirm these fees with your dealer.

Invesco Global Select Equity Fund - Series I

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series I units of the Fund have performed over the past 10 years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series I units of the Fund performed in each of the past 10 years. The Fund dropped in value in two of the 10 years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

† On November 28, 2022 and March 1, 2021, the Fund's investment strategies were changed. The performance of this Fund for the period prior to this date would have been different had the current investment strategies been in place during that period.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series I units of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	16.9%	March 31, 2019	Your investment would rise to $1,169
Worst return	-20.5%	March 31, 2022	Your investment would drop to $795

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series I units of the Fund 10 years ago now has $2,430. This works out to an annual compound return of 9.29%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want strong capital growth over the long term
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Want a global equity investment
- Are comfortable with medium risk

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series I units of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

There are no sales charges for Series I units of the Fund.

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns. Investors negotiate and pay the management and advisory fees for Series I units directly. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays all operating expenses.

As of December 31, 2022, the expenses of Series I were 0.20% of the value of this series. This equals $2.00 for every $1,000 invested.

More about the trailing commission

Invesco Canada Ltd. does not pay trailing commissions in respect of Series I units of the Fund.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series I units of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Management and advisory fee	Investors negotiate and pay the management and advisory fee for Series I units directly. The maximum annual management and advisory fee that may be payable to Invesco Canada Ltd. is 2.00%.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Medium.

Because this is a new series, the risk rating is only an estimate by Invesco Canada Ltd. Generally, the rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

You may pay a sales charge when you buy Series P units of the Fund.

Sales charge option	What you pay		How it works
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	0% to 5% of the amount you pay	$0 to $50 on every $1,000 you pay	■ You and your representative decide on the rate ■ The initial sales charge is deducted from the amount you pay. It goes to your representative's firm as a commission

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

The series' expenses are made up of the management fee, operating expenses and trading costs. The series' annual management fee is 1.85% of the series' value. Because this series is new, its operating expenses and trading costs are not yet available.

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.50% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.50% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

¹ 1.00% after seven years. ² 1.00% after four years.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco Global Select Equity Fund - Series T6

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series T6 units of the Fund have performed over the past 10 years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series T6 units of the Fund performed in each of the past 10 years. The Fund dropped in value in two of the 10 years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

† On November 28, 2022 and March 1, 2021, the Fund's investment strategies were changed. The performance of this Fund for the period prior to this date would have been different had the current investment strategies been in place during that period.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series T6 units of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	16.3%	March 31, 2019	Your investment would rise to $1,163
Worst return	-21.0%	March 31, 2022	Your investment would drop to $790

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series T6 units of the Fund 10 years ago now has $1,922. This works out to an annual compound return of 6.75%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want strong capital growth over the long term
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Want a global equity investment
- Are comfortable with medium risk

Series T6 is appropriate for investors who want to receive regular distributions.

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series T6 units of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

Invesco Global Select Equity Fund - Series T6

1. Sales charges

You may pay a sales charge when you buy Series T6 units of the Fund.

Sales charge option	What you pay		How it works
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	0% to 5% of the amount you pay	$0 to $50 on every $1,000 you pay	■ You and your representative decide on the rate ■ The initial sales charge is deducted from the amount you pay. It goes to your representative's firm as a commission

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of December 31, 2022, the expenses of Series T6 were 2.61% of the value of this series. This equals $26.10 for every $1,000 invested.

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco Global Select Equity Class - Series F

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series F shares of the Fund have performed over the past 10 years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series F shares of the Fund performed in each of the past 10 years. The Fund dropped in value in two of the 10 years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

† On November 28, 2022 and March 1, 2021, the Fund's investment strategies were changed. The performance of this Fund for the period prior to this date would have been different had the current investment strategies been in place during that period.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series F shares of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	16.5%	March 31, 2019	Your investment would rise to $1,165
Worst return	-20.7%	March 31, 2022	Your investment would drop to $793

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series F shares of the Fund 10 years ago now has $2,118. This works out to an annual compound return of 7.79%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want strong capital growth over the long term
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Want a global equity investment
- Are comfortable with medium risk

Investors who wish to gain exposure to foreign investments but wish to minimize exposure to fluctuations in foreign currency relative to the Canadian dollar should invest in Series FH securities of this Fund.

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series F shares of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

There are no sales charges for Series F shares of the Fund.

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series F were 1.34% of the value of this series. This equals $13.40 for every $1,000 invested.

More about the trailing commission

Invesco Canada Ltd. does not pay trailing commissions in respect of Series F shares of the Fund.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series F shares of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Investment advisory fee	If you hold this series of shares in a fee-based account at your representative's firm, your representative's firm may charge you an investment advisory fee which you negotiate with your representative. Invesco Canada Ltd. may have an arrangement with your representative's firm to collect the investment advisory fee (plus any applicable taxes) from you on behalf of your representative's firm. Where such an arrangement exists, the maximum annual investment advisory fee that we will collect from you is 1.50% (excluding applicable taxes) and the fee (plus any applicable taxes) is collected by redeeming some of the shares you own of the Fund.
Fees for services	If you hold this series of shares in an account with a dealer that does not make a suitability determination, such as a discount broker, your dealer may charge you fees when you buy, switch, and/or redeem such shares. You should confirm these fees with your dealer.

What if I change my mind?

Under securities law in some provinces and territories, you have the right to:

- withdraw from an agreement to buy mutual funds within two business days after you receive a simplified prospectus or Fund Facts document,

or

- cancel your purchase within 48 hours after you receive confirmation of the purchase.

In some provinces and territories, you also have the right to cancel a purchase or, in some jurisdictions, claim damages if the simplified prospectus, Fund Facts document or financial statements contain a misrepresentation. We will switch your Series H shares into Series PH shares of the Fund, which have a lower annual management and advisory fee, once your investment amount in related Invesco accounts meets the Private Investor Series eligibility requirement of $100,000, and if your Series H shares are held within a registered account. The annual fee decrease from Series H to Series PH is 0.15%. If you no longer meet the eligibility requirements for Series PH, we will switch your shares back into Series H shares. See "Purchases, switches and redemptions" in the Fund's simplified prospectus and speak to your representative for additional details.

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.50% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.50% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

¹ 1.00% after seven years. ² 1.00% after four years.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series H shares of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the shares you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco Global Select Equity Class - Series I

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series I shares of the Fund have performed over the past 10 years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series I shares of the Fund performed in each of the past 10 years. The Fund dropped in value in two of the 10 years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

† On November 28, 2022 and March 1, 2021, the Fund's investment strategies were changed. The performance of this Fund for the period prior to this date would have been different had the current investment strategies been in place during that period.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series I shares of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	16.8%	March 31, 2019	Your investment would rise to $1,168
Worst return	-20.5%	March 31, 2022	Your investment would drop to $795

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series I shares of the Fund 10 years ago now has $2,404. This works out to an annual compound return of 9.17%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want strong capital growth over the long term
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Want a global equity investment
- Are comfortable with medium risk

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series I shares of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

There are no sales charges for Series I shares of the Fund.

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns. Investors negotiate and pay the management and advisory fees for Series I shares directly. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays all operating expenses.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series I were 0.22% of the value of this series. This equals $2.20 for every $1,000 invested.

More about the trailing commission

Invesco Canada Ltd. does not pay trailing commissions in respect of Series I shares of the Fund.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series I shares of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Management and advisory fee	Investors negotiate and pay the management and advisory fee for Series I shares directly. The maximum annual management and advisory fee that may be payable to Invesco Canada Ltd. is 2.00%.

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.50% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.50% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

¹ 1.00% after seven years. ² 1.00% after four years.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series PH shares of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the shares you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco Global Select Equity Class - Series PTF

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series PTF shares of the Fund have performed over the past seven years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series PTF shares of the Fund performed in each of the past seven years. The Fund dropped in value in two of the seven years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

† On November 28, 2022 and March 1, 2021, the Fund's investment strategies were changed. The performance of this Fund for the period prior to this date would have been different had the current investment strategies been in place during that period.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series PTF shares of the Fund in a three-month period over the past seven years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	16.6%	March 31, 2019	Your investment would rise to $1,166
Worst return	-20.7%	March 31, 2022	Your investment would drop to $793

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series PTF shares of the Fund at its inception now has $1,441. This works out to an annual compound return of 4.99%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want strong capital growth over the long term
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Want a global equity investment
- Are comfortable with medium risk

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series PTF shares of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

There are no sales charges for Series PTF shares of the Fund.

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series PTF were 1.16% of the value of this series. This equals $11.60 for every $1,000 invested.

This chart shows how Series T6 shares of the Fund performed in each of the past 10 years. The Fund dropped in value in two of the 10 years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

† On November 28, 2022 and March 1, 2021, the Fund's investment strategies were changed. The performance of this Fund for the period prior to this date would have been different had the current investment strategies been in place during that period.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series T6 shares of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	16.2%	March 31, 2019	Your investment would rise to $1,162
Worst return	-21.0%	March 31, 2022	Your investment would drop to $790

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series T6 shares of the Fund 10 years ago now has $1,889. This works out to an annual compound return of 6.57%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want strong capital growth over the long term
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Want a global equity investment
- Are comfortable with medium risk

Series T6 is appropriate for investors who want to receive regular distributions.

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series T6 shares of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

Invesco Global Select Equity Class - Series T6

1. Sales charges

You may pay a sales charge when you buy Series T6 shares of the Fund.

Sales charge option	What you pay		How it works
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	0% to 5% of the amount you pay	$0 to $50 on every $1,000 you pay	■ You and your representative decide on the rate ■ The initial sales charge is deducted from the amount you pay. It goes to your representative's firm as a commission

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series T6 were 2.68% of the value of this series. This equals $26.80 for every $1,000 invested.

	Annual rate (as a % of the Fund's value)
Management expense ratio (MER) This is the total of the Fund's management fee (which includes the trailing commission) and operating expenses.	2.46%
Trading expense ratio (TER) This is the Fund's trading costs.	0.22%
Fund expenses	2.68%

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.50% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.50% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

¹ 1.00% after seven years. ² 1.00% after four years.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series T6 shares of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the shares you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco Developing Markets Fund (formerly, Invesco Emerging Markets Fund) - Series A

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series A units of the Fund have performed over the past 10 years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series A units of the Fund performed in each of the past 10 years. The Fund dropped in value in three of the 10 years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

†On August 21, 2020, the Fund's investment objectives, strategies and portfolio advisor were changed. The performance of this Fund for the period prior to this date would have been different had the current investment objectives and strategies been in place during that period.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series A units of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	17.9%	January 31, 2023	Your investment would rise to $1,179
Worst return	-18.1%	April 30, 2022	Your investment would drop to $819

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series A units of the Fund 10 years ago now has $1,090. This works out to an annual compound return of 0.87%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want capital growth over the long term
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Want exposure to emerging-market equities
- Are comfortable with medium risk

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series A units of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

Invesco Developing Markets Fund (formerly, Invesco Emerging Markets Fund) - Series A

1. Sales charges

You may pay a sales charge when you buy Series A units of the Fund.

Sales charge option	What you pay		How it works
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	0% to 5% of the amount you pay	$0 to $50 on every $1,000 you pay	■ You and your representative decide on the rate ■ The initial sales charge is deducted from the amount you pay. It goes to your representative's firm as a commission

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of December 31, 2022, the expenses of Series A were 3.46% of the value of this series. This equals $34.60 for every $1,000 invested.

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.50% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.50% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

¹ 1.00% after seven years. ² 1.00% after four years.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series A units of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the units you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

This section tells you how Series PTF units of the Fund have performed over the past eight years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series PTF units of the Fund performed in each of the past eight years. The Fund dropped in value in three of the eight years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

†On August 21, 2020, the Fund's investment objectives, strategies and portfolio advisor were changed. The performance of this Fund for the period prior to this date would have been different had the current investment objectives and strategies been in place during that period.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series PTF units of the Fund in a three-month period over the past eight years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	18.5%	January 31, 2023	Your investment would rise to $1,185
Worst return	-17.8%	April 30, 2022	Your investment would drop to $822

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series PTF units of the Fund at its inception now has $1,055. This works out to an annual compound return of 0.64%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want capital growth over the long term
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Want exposure to emerging-market equities
- Are comfortable with medium risk

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series PTF units of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

There are no sales charges for Series PTF units of the Fund.

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of December 31, 2022, the expenses of Series PTF were 1.54% of the value of this series. This equals $15.40 for every $1,000 invested.

More about the trailing commission

Invesco Canada Ltd. does not pay trailing commissions in respect of Series PTF units of the Fund.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series PTF units of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Investment advisory fee	You may buy and hold this series of units in an account where you pay for advice directly to your representative's firm (in whatever form agreed to between you and your representative's firm), rather than through Invesco Canada Ltd. (either directly or indirectly). Your representative's firm may charge you an investment advisory fee which you negotiate with your representative.

What if I change my mind?

Under securities law in some provinces and territories, you have the right to:

- withdraw from an agreement to buy mutual funds within two business days after you receive a simplified prospectus or Fund Facts document,

or

- cancel your purchase within 48 hours after you receive confirmation of the purchase.

In some provinces and territories, you also have the right to cancel a purchase or, in some jurisdictions, claim damages if the simplified prospectus, Fund Facts document or financial statements contain a misrepresentation. You must act within the time limit set by the securities legislation in your province or territory.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

We will switch your Series A shares into Series P shares of the Fund, which have a lower annual management and advisory fee, once your investment amount in related Invesco accounts meets the Private Investor Series eligibility requirement of $100,000. The annual fee decrease from Series A to Series P is 0.05%. If you no longer meet the eligibility requirements for Series P, we will switch your shares back into Series A shares. See "Purchases, switches and redemptions" in the Fund's simplified prospectus and speak to your representative for additional details.

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.50% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.50% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

¹ 1.00% after seven years. ² 1.00% after four years.

Invesco Developing Markets Class (formerly, Invesco Emerging Markets Class) - Series F

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series F shares of the Fund have performed over the past 10 years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series F shares of the Fund performed in each of the past 10 years. The Fund dropped in value in three of the 10 years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

† On April 5, 2013, the Fund's investment strategies and portfolio advisor were changed. The performance of this Fund for the period prior to this date would have been different had the current investment strategies and portfolio advisor been in place during that period.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series F shares of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	22.4%	August 31, 2020	Your investment would rise to $1,224
Worst return	-17.9%	April 30, 2022	Your investment would drop to $821

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series F shares of the Fund 10 years ago now has $1,451. This works out to an annual compound return of 3.80%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want capital growth over the long term
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Want exposure to emerging-market equities
- Are comfortable with medium risk

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series F shares of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

There are no sales charges for Series F shares of the Fund.

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series F were 1.74% of the value of this series. This equals $17.40 for every $1,000 invested.

More about the trailing commission

Invesco Canada Ltd. does not pay trailing commissions in respect of Series F shares of the Fund.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series F shares of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Investment advisory fee	If you hold this series of shares in a fee-based account at your representative's firm, your representative's firm may charge you an investment advisory fee which you negotiate with your representative. Invesco Canada Ltd. may have an arrangement with your representative's firm to collect the investment advisory fee (plus any applicable taxes) from you on behalf of your representative's firm. Where such an arrangement exists, the maximum annual investment advisory fee that we will collect from you is 1.50% (excluding applicable taxes) and the fee (plus any applicable taxes) is collected by redeeming some of the shares you own of the Fund.
Fees for services	If you hold this series of shares in an account with a dealer that does not make a suitability determination, such as a discount broker, your dealer may charge you fees when you buy, switch, and/or redeem such shares. You should confirm these fees with your dealer.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco Developing Markets Class (formerly, Invesco Emerging Markets Class) - Series PTF

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series PTF shares of the Fund have performed over the past eight years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series PTF shares of the Fund performed in each of the past eight years. The Fund dropped in value in three of the eight years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series PTF shares of the Fund in a three-month period over the past eight years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	22.4%	August 31, 2020	Your investment would rise to $1,224
Worst return	-17.9%	April 30, 2022	Your investment would drop to $821

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series PTF shares of the Fund at its inception now has $1,223. This works out to an annual compound return of 2.40%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want capital growth over the long term
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Want exposure to emerging-market equities
- Are comfortable with medium risk

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series PTF shares of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

There are no sales charges for Series PTF shares of the Fund.

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series PTF were 1.60% of the value of this series. This equals $16.00 for every $1,000 invested.

More about the trailing commission

Invesco Canada Ltd. does not pay trailing commissions in respect of Series PTF shares of the Fund.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series PTF shares of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Investment advisory fee	You may buy and hold this series of shares in an account where you pay for advice directly to your representative's firm (in whatever form agreed to between you and your representative's firm), rather than through Invesco Canada Ltd. (either directly or indirectly). Your representative's firm may charge you an investment advisory fee which you negotiate with your representative.

What if I change my mind?

Under securities law in some provinces and territories, you have the right to:

- withdraw from an agreement to buy mutual funds within two business days after you receive a simplified prospectus or Fund Facts document,

or

- cancel your purchase within 48 hours after you receive confirmation of the purchase.

In some provinces and territories, you also have the right to cancel a purchase or, in some jurisdictions, claim damages if the simplified prospectus, Fund Facts document or financial statements contain a misrepresentation. You must act within the time limit set by the securities legislation in your province or territory.

For more information, see the securities law of your province or territory or ask a lawyer.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

Invesco EQV European Equity Fund (formerly, Invesco Europlus Fund) - Series A

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series A units of the Fund have performed over the past 10 years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series A units of the Fund performed in each of the past 10 years. The Fund dropped in value in three of the 10 years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

† On November 28, 2022, the Fund's investment strategies were changed. The performance of this Fund for the period prior to this date would have been different had the current investment strategies been in place during that period.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series A units of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	16.1%	January 31, 2023	Your investment would rise to $1,161
Worst return	-22.1%	March 31, 2022	Your investment would drop to $779

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series A units of the Fund 10 years ago now has $1,543. This works out to an annual compound return of 4.44%.

Who is this Fund for?

- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Are comfortable with medium risk

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series A units of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

Invesco EQV European Equity Fund (formerly, Invesco Europlus Fund) - Series A

1. Sales charges

You may pay a sales charge when you buy Series A units of the Fund.

Sales charge option	What you pay		How it works
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	0% to 5% of the amount you pay	$0 to $50 on every $1,000 you pay	■ You and your representative decide on the rate ■ The initial sales charge is deducted from the amount you pay. It goes to your representative's firm as a commission

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of December 31, 2022, the expenses of Series A were 3.27% of the value of this series. This equals $32.70 for every $1,000 invested.

	Annual rate (as a % of the Fund's value)
Management expense ratio (MER) This is the total of the Fund's management fee (which includes the trailing commission) and operating expenses.	2.86%
Trading expense ratio (TER) This is the Fund's trading costs.	0.41%
Fund expenses	3.27%

We will switch your Series A units into Series P units of the Fund, which have a lower annual management and advisory fee, once your investment amount in related Invesco accounts meets the Private Investor Series eligibility requirement of $100,000. The annual fee decrease from Series A to Series P is 0.15%. If you no longer meet the eligibility requirements for Series P, we will switch your units back into Series A units. See "Purchases, switches and redemptions" in the Fund's simplified prospectus and speak to your representative for additional details.

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.50% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.50% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

¹ 1.00% after seven years. ² 1.00% after four years.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series A units of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the units you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco EQV European Equity Fund (formerly, Invesco Europlus Fund) - Series F

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series F units of the Fund have performed over the past 10 years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series F units of the Fund performed in each of the past 10 years. The Fund dropped in value in three of the 10 years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

† On November 28, 2022, the Fund's investment strategies were changed. The performance of this Fund for the period prior to this date would have been different had the current investment strategies been in place during that period.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series F units of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	16.7%	January 31, 2023	Your investment would rise to $1,167
Worst return	-21.8%	March 31, 2022	Your investment would drop to $782

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series F units of the Fund 10 years ago now has $1,778. This works out to an annual compound return of 5.92%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want a European equity fund that emphasizes companies with strong growth potential
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Are comfortable with medium risk

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

More about the trailing commission

Invesco Canada Ltd. does not pay trailing commissions in respect of Series F units of the Fund.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series F units of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Investment advisory fee	If you hold this series of units in a fee-based account at your representative's firm, your representative's firm may charge you an investment advisory fee which you negotiate with your representative. Invesco Canada Ltd. may have an arrangement with your representative's firm to collect the investment advisory fee (plus any applicable taxes) from you on behalf of your representative's firm. Where such an arrangement exists, the maximum annual investment advisory fee that we will collect from you is 1.50% (excluding applicable taxes) and the fee (plus any applicable taxes) is collected by redeeming some of the units you own of the Fund.
Fees for services	If you hold this series of units in an account with a dealer that does not make a suitability determination, such as a discount broker, your dealer may charge you fees when you buy, switch, and/or redeem such units. You should confirm these fees with your dealer.

† On November 28, 2022, the Fund's investment strategies were changed. The performance of this Fund for the period prior to this date would have been different had the current investment strategies been in place during that period.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series P units of the Fund in a three-month period over the past nine years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	16.3%	January 31, 2023	Your investment would rise to $1,163
Worst return	-22.0%	March 31, 2022	Your investment would drop to $780

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series P units of the Fund at its inception now has $1,447. This works out to an annual compound return of 3.95%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want a European equity fund that emphasizes companies with strong growth potential
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Are comfortable with medium risk

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series P units of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

You may pay a sales charge when you buy Series P units of the Fund.

Sales charge option	What you pay		How it works
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	0% to 5% of the amount you pay	$0 to $50 on every $1,000 you pay	■ You and your representative decide on the rate ■ The initial sales charge is deducted from the amount you pay. It goes to your representative's firm as a commission

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of December 31, 2022, the expenses of Series P were 2.72% of the value of this series. This equals $27.20 for every $1,000 invested.

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.50% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.50% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

¹ 1.00% after seven years. ² 1.00% after four years.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series P units of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the units you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco EQV European Equity Class - Series A

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series A shares of the Fund have performed over the past 10 years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series A shares of the Fund performed in each of the past 10 years. The Fund dropped in value in four of the 10 years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series A shares of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	17.8%	January 31, 2023	Your investment would rise to $1,178
Worst return	-20.9%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $791

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series A shares of the Fund 10 years ago now has $1,478. This works out to an annual compound return of 3.99%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want a European equity fund that emphasizes companies with strong growth potential
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Are comfortable with medium risk

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series A shares of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

You may pay a sales charge when you buy Series A shares of the Fund.

Sales charge option	What you pay		How it works
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	0% to 5% of the amount you pay	$0 to $50 on every $1,000 you pay	■ You and your representative decide on the rate ■ The initial sales charge is deducted from the amount you pay. It goes to your representative's firm as a commission

Invesco EQV European Equity Class - Series A

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series A were 3.17% of the value of this series. This equals $31.70 for every $1,000 invested.

	Annual rate (as a % of the Fund's value)
Management expense ratio (MER) This is the total of the Fund's management fee (which includes the trailing commission) and operating expenses. Invesco Canada Ltd. waived some of the Fund's expenses. If it had not done so, the MER would have been higher.	2.96%
Trading expense ratio (TER) This is the Fund's trading costs.	0.21%
Fund expenses	3.17%

We will switch your Series A shares into Series P shares of the Fund, which have a lower annual management and advisory fee, once your investment amount in related Invesco accounts meets the Private Investor Series eligibility requirement of $100,000. The annual fee decrease from Series A to Series P is 0.15%. If you no longer meet the eligibility requirements for Series P, we will switch your shares back into Series A shares. See "Purchases, switches and redemptions" in the Fund's simplified prospectus and speak to your representative for additional details.

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.50% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.50% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

¹ 1.00% after seven years. ² 1.00% after four years.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series A shares of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the shares you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco EQV European Equity Class - Series I

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series I shares of the Fund have performed over the past 10 years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series I shares of the Fund performed in each of the past 10 years. The Fund dropped in value in three of the 10 years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series I shares of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	18.7%	January 31, 2023	Your investment would rise to $1,187
Worst return	-20.3%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $797

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series I shares of the Fund 10 years ago now has $1,983. This works out to an annual compound return of 7.09%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want a European equity fund that emphasizes companies with strong growth potential
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Are comfortable with medium risk

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series I shares of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

There are no sales charges for Series I shares of the Fund.

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns. Investors negotiate and pay the management and advisory fees for Series I shares directly. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays all operating expenses.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series I were 0.21% of the value of this series. This equals $2.10 for every $1,000 invested.

More about the trailing commission

Invesco Canada Ltd. does not pay trailing commissions in respect of Series I shares of the Fund.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series I shares of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Management and advisory fee	Investors negotiate and pay the management and advisory fee for Series I shares directly. The maximum annual management and advisory fee that may be payable to Invesco Canada Ltd. is 2.00%.

What if I change my mind?

Under securities law in some provinces and territories, you have the right to:

- withdraw from an agreement to buy mutual funds within two business days after you receive a simplified prospectus or Fund Facts document,

or

- cancel your purchase within 48 hours after you receive confirmation of the purchase.

In some provinces and territories, you also have the right to cancel a purchase or, in some jurisdictions, claim damages if the simplified prospectus, Fund Facts document or financial statements contain a misrepresentation. You must act within the time limit set by the securities legislation in your province or territory.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco EQV European Equity Class - Series PTFU

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series PTFU shares of the Fund have performed over the past eight years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted and are in U.S. dollars. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series PTFU shares of the Fund performed in each of the past eight years. The Fund dropped in value in three of the eight years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series PTFU shares of the Fund in a three-month period over the past eight years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	21.3%	January 31, 2023	Your investment would rise to $1,213
Worst return	-26.6%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $734

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series PTFU shares of the Fund at its inception now has $1,261. This works out to an annual compound return of 2.76%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want a European equity fund that emphasizes companies with strong growth potential
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Are comfortable with medium risk

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series PTFU shares of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

There are no sales charges for Series PTFU shares of the Fund.

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series PTFU were 1.17% of the value of this series. This equals $11.70 for every $1,000 invested.

More about the trailing commission

Invesco Canada Ltd. does not pay trailing commissions in respect of Series PTFU shares of the Fund.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series PTFU shares of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Investment advisory fee	You may buy and hold this series of shares in an account where you pay for advice directly to your representative's firm (in whatever form agreed to between you and your representative's firm), rather than through Invesco Canada Ltd. (either directly or indirectly). Your representative's firm may charge you an investment advisory fee which you negotiate with your representative.

What if I change my mind?

Under securities law in some provinces and territories, you have the right to:

- withdraw from an agreement to buy mutual funds within two business days after you receive a simplified prospectus or Fund Facts document,

or

- cancel your purchase within 48 hours after you receive confirmation of the purchase.

In some provinces and territories, you also have the right to cancel a purchase or, in some jurisdictions, claim damages if the simplified prospectus, Fund Facts document or financial statements contain a misrepresentation. You must act within the time limit set by the securities legislation in your province or territory.

For more information, see the securities law of your province or territory or ask a lawyer.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.50% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.50% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

¹ 1.00% after seven years. ² 1.00% after four years.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series A units of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the units you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco EQV International Equity Fund - Series I

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series I units of the Fund have performed over the past 10 years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series I units of the Fund performed in each of the past 10 years. The Fund dropped in value in three of the 10 years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series I units of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	17.2%	January 31, 2023	Your investment would rise to $1,172
Worst return	-17.0%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $830

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series I units of the Fund 10 years ago now has $2,197. This works out to an annual compound return of 8.19%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want an international equity fund that emphasizes companies with strong growth potential
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Want to diversify their portfolio through international investing
- Are comfortable with medium risk

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series I units of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

There are no sales charges for Series I units of the Fund.

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns. Investors negotiate and pay the management and advisory fees for Series I units directly. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays all operating expenses.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series I were 0.16% of the value of this series. This equals $1.60 for every $1,000 invested.

More about the trailing commission

Invesco Canada Ltd. does not pay trailing commissions in respect of Series I units of the Fund.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series I units of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Management and advisory fee	Investors negotiate and pay the management and advisory fee for Series I units directly. The maximum annual management and advisory fee that may be payable to Invesco Canada Ltd. is 2.00%.

What if I change my mind?

Under securities law in some provinces and territories, you have the right to:

- withdraw from an agreement to buy mutual funds within two business days after you receive a simplified prospectus or Fund Facts document,

or

- cancel your purchase within 48 hours after you receive confirmation of the purchase.

In some provinces and territories, you also have the right to cancel a purchase or, in some jurisdictions, claim damages if the simplified prospectus, Fund Facts document or financial statements contain a misrepresentation. You must act within the time limit set by the securities legislation in your province or territory.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

We will switch your Series A shares into Series P shares of the Fund, which have a lower annual management and advisory fee, once your investment amount in related Invesco accounts meets the Private Investor Series eligibility requirement of $100,000. The annual fee decrease from Series A to Series P is 0.15%. If you no longer meet the eligibility requirements for Series P, we will switch your shares back into Series A shares. See "Purchases, switches and redemptions" in the Fund's simplified prospectus and speak to your representative for additional details.

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.50% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.50% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

¹ 1.00% after seven years. ² 1.00% after four years.

3. Other fees

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco EQV International Equity Class - Series FH

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series FH shares of the Fund have performed over the past six years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series FH shares of the Fund performed in each of the past six years. The Fund dropped in value in two of the six years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series FH shares of the Fund in a three-month period over the past six years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	17.5%	June 30, 2020	Your investment would rise to $1,175
Worst return	-21.4%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $786

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series FH shares of the Fund at its inception now has $1,485. This works out to an annual compound return of 5.83%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want an international equity fund that emphasizes companies with strong growth potential
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Want to diversify their portfolio through international investing
- Are comfortable with medium risk
- Want to gain exposure to foreign equity securities but wish to minimize exposure to fluctuations in foreign currency relative to the Canadian dollar

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series FH shares of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

There are no sales charges for Series FH shares of the Fund.

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series FH were 1.17% of the value of this series. This equals $11.70 for every $1,000 invested.

More about the trailing commission

Invesco Canada Ltd. does not pay trailing commissions in respect of Series FH shares of the Fund.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series FH shares of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Investment advisory fee	If you hold this series of shares in a fee-based account at your representative's firm, your representative's firm may charge you an investment advisory fee which you negotiate with your representative. Invesco Canada Ltd. may have an arrangement with your representative's firm to collect the investment advisory fee (plus any applicable taxes) from you on behalf of your representative's firm. Where such an arrangement exists, the maximum annual investment advisory fee that we will collect from you is 1.50% (excluding applicable taxes) and the fee (plus any applicable taxes) is collected by redeeming some of the shares you own of the Fund.
Fees for services	If you hold this series of shares in an account with a dealer that does not make a suitability determination, such as a discount broker, your dealer may charge you fees when you buy, switch, and/or redeem such shares. You should confirm these fees with your dealer.

What if I change my mind?

Under securities law in some provinces and territories, you have the right to:

- withdraw from an agreement to buy mutual funds within two business days after you receive a simplified prospectus or Fund Facts document,

or

- cancel your purchase within 48 hours after you receive confirmation of the purchase.

In some provinces and territories, you also have the right to cancel a purchase or, in some jurisdictions, claim damages if the simplified prospectus, Fund Facts document or financial statements contain a misrepresentation. You must act within the time limit set by the securities legislation in your province or territory.

We will switch your Series H shares into Series PH shares of the Fund, which have a lower annual management and advisory fee, once your investment amount in related Invesco accounts meets the Private Investor Series eligibility requirement of $100,000, and if your Series H shares are held within a registered account. The annual fee decrease from Series H to Series PH is 0.15%. If you no longer meet the eligibility requirements for Series PH, we will switch your shares back into Series H shares. See "Purchases, switches and redemptions" in the Fund's simplified prospectus and speak to your representative for additional details.

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.50% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.50% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

¹ 1.00% after seven years. ² 1.00% after four years.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series H shares of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the shares you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco EQV International Equity Class - Series P

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series P shares of the Fund have performed over the past 10 years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series P shares of the Fund performed in each of the past 10 years. The Fund dropped in value in three of the 10 years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series P shares of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	16.5%	January 31, 2023	Your investment would rise to $1,165
Worst return	-17.6%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $824

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series P shares of the Fund 10 years ago now has $1,760. This works out to an annual compound return of 5.81%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want an international equity fund that emphasizes companies with strong growth potential
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Want to diversify their portfolio through international investing
- Are comfortable with medium risk

Investors who wish to gain exposure to foreign investments but wish to minimize exposure to fluctuations in foreign currency relative to the Canadian dollar should invest in Series PH securities of this Fund.

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series P shares of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

Invesco EQV International Equity Class - Series P

1. Sales charges

You may pay a sales charge when you buy Series P shares of the Fund.

Sales charge option	What you pay		How it works
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	0% to 5% of the amount you pay	$0 to $50 on every $1,000 you pay	■ You and your representative decide on the rate ■ The initial sales charge is deducted from the amount you pay. It goes to your representative's firm as a commission

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series P were 2.56% of the value of this series. This equals $25.60 for every $1,000 invested.

	Annual rate (as a % of the Fund's value)
Management expense ratio (MER) This is the total of the Fund's management fee (which includes the trailing commission) and operating expenses.	2.41%
Trading expense ratio (TER) This is the Fund's trading costs.	0.15%

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.50% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.50% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

¹ 1.00% after seven years. ² 1.00% after four years.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series P shares of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the shares you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco EQV International Equity Class - Series PTFU

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series PTFU shares of the Fund have performed over the past eight years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted and are in U.S. dollars. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series PTFU shares of the Fund performed in each of the past eight years. The Fund dropped in value in four of the eight years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series PTFU shares of the Fund in a three-month period over the past eight years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	19.8%	January 31, 2023	Your investment would rise to $1,198
Worst return	-24.0%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $760

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series PTFU shares of the Fund at its inception now has $1,342. This works out to an annual compound return of 3.51%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want an international equity fund that emphasizes companies with strong growth potential
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Want to diversify their portfolio through international investing
- Are comfortable with medium risk

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series PTFU shares of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

There are no sales charges for Series PTFU shares of the Fund.

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series PTFU were 1.13% of the value of this series. This equals $11.30 for every $1,000 invested.

More about the trailing commission

Invesco Canada Ltd. does not pay trailing commissions in respect of Series PTFU shares of the Fund.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series PTFU shares of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Investment advisory fee	You may buy and hold this series of shares in an account where you pay for advice directly to your representative's firm (in whatever form agreed to between you and your representative's firm), rather than through Invesco Canada Ltd. (either directly or indirectly). Your representative's firm may charge you an investment advisory fee which you negotiate with your representative.

What if I change my mind?

Under securities law in some provinces and territories, you have the right to:

- withdraw from an agreement to buy mutual funds within two business days after you receive a simplified prospectus or Fund Facts document,

or

- cancel your purchase within 48 hours after you receive confirmation of the purchase.

In some provinces and territories, you also have the right to cancel a purchase or, in some jurisdictions, claim damages if the simplified prospectus, Fund Facts document or financial statements contain a misrepresentation. You must act within the time limit set by the securities legislation in your province or territory.

For more information, see the securities law of your province or territory or ask a lawyer.

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.50% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.50% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

¹ 1.00% after seven years. ² 1.00% after four years.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco Oppenheimer International Growth Fund (formerly, Invesco International Companies Fund) - Series I

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series I units of the Fund have performed over the past 10 years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series I units of the Fund performed in each of the past 10 years. The Fund dropped in value in three of the 10 years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

† On November 28, 2022, the Fund's investment strategies were changed. The performance of this Fund for the period prior to this date would have been different had the current investment strategies been in place during that period.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series I units of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	18.3%	January 31, 2023	Your investment would rise to $1,183
Worst return	-16.1%	March 31, 2022	Your investment would drop to $839

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series I units of the Fund 10 years ago now has $2,309. This works out to an annual compound return of 8.73%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want strong capital growth over the long term
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Want a diversified international equity investment
- Are comfortable with medium risk

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series I units of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

There are no sales charges for Series I units of the Fund.

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns. Investors negotiate and pay the management and advisory fees for Series I units directly. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays all operating expenses.

As of December 31, 2022, the expenses of Series I were 0.33% of the value of this series. This equals $3.30 for every $1,000 invested.

More about the trailing commission

Invesco Canada Ltd. does not pay trailing commissions in respect of Series I units of the Fund.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series I units of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Management and advisory fee	Investors negotiate and pay the management and advisory fee for Series I units directly. The maximum annual management and advisory fee that may be payable to Invesco Canada Ltd. is 2.00%.

What if I change my mind?

Under securities law in some provinces and territories, you have the right to:

- withdraw from an agreement to buy mutual funds within two business days after you receive a simplified prospectus or Fund Facts document,

or

- cancel your purchase within 48 hours after you receive confirmation of the purchase.

In some provinces and territories, you also have the right to cancel a purchase or, in some jurisdictions, claim damages if the simplified prospectus, Fund Facts document or financial statements contain a misrepresentation. You must act within the time limit set by the securities legislation in your province or territory.

We will switch your Series A shares into Series P shares of the Fund, which have a lower annual management and advisory fee, once your investment amount in related Invesco accounts meets the Private Investor Series eligibility requirement of $100,000. The annual fee decrease from Series A to Series P is 0.15%. If you no longer meet the eligibility requirements for Series P, we will switch your shares back into Series A shares. See "Purchases, switches and redemptions" in the Fund's simplified prospectus and speak to your representative for additional details.

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

Investment advisory fee	If you hold this series of shares in a fee-based account at your representative's firm, your representative's firm may charge you an investment advisory fee which you negotiate with your representative. Invesco Canada Ltd. may have an arrangement with your representative's firm to collect the investment advisory fee (plus any applicable taxes) from you on behalf of your representative's firm. Where such an arrangement exists, the maximum annual investment advisory fee that we will collect from you is 1.50% (excluding applicable taxes) and the fee (plus any applicable taxes) is collected by redeeming some of the shares you own of the Fund.
Fees for services	If you hold this series of shares in an account with a dealer that does not make a suitability determination, such as a discount broker, your dealer may charge you fees when you buy, switch, and/or redeem such shares. You should confirm these fees with your dealer.

What if I change my mind?

Under securities law in some provinces and territories, you have the right to:

- withdraw from an agreement to buy mutual funds within two business days after you receive a simplified prospectus or Fund Facts document,

or

- cancel your purchase within 48 hours after you receive confirmation of the purchase.

In some provinces and territories, you also have the right to cancel a purchase or, in some jurisdictions, claim damages if the simplified prospectus, Fund Facts document or financial statements contain a misrepresentation. You must act within the time limit set by the securities legislation in your province or territory.

For more information, see the securities law of your province or territory or ask a lawyer.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

Low	Low to medium	Medium	Medium to high	High

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco Oppenheimer International Growth Class (formerly, Invesco International Companies Class) - Series P

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series P shares of the Fund have performed over the past 10 years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series P shares of the Fund performed in each of the past 10 years. The Fund dropped in value in three of the 10 years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

† On November 28, 2022, the Fund's investment strategies were changed. The performance of this Fund for the period prior to this date would have been different had the current investment strategies been in place during that period.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series P shares of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	18.0%	January 31, 2023	Your investment would rise to $1,180
Worst return	-16.6%	March 31, 2022	Your investment would drop to $834

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series P shares of the Fund 10 years ago now has $1,778. This works out to an annual compound return of 5.92%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want strong capital growth over the long term
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Want a diversified international equity investment
- Are comfortable with medium risk

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series P shares of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

Invesco Oppenheimer International Growth Class (formerly, Invesco International Companies Class) - Series P

1. Sales charges

You may pay a sales charge when you buy Series P shares of the Fund.

Sales charge option	What you pay		How it works
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	0% to 5% of the amount you pay	$0 to $50 on every $1,000 you pay	■ You and your representative decide on the rate ■ The initial sales charge is deducted from the amount you pay. It goes to your representative's firm as a commission

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series P were 2.80% of the value of this series. This equals $28.00 for every $1,000 invested.

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.50% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.50% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

¹ 1.00% after seven years. ² 1.00% after four years.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series P shares of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the shares you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

Low	Low to medium	Medium	Medium to high	High

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco Global Real Estate Fund - Series A

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series A units of the Fund have performed over the past 10 years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series A units of the Fund performed in each of the past 10 years. The Fund dropped in value in three of the 10 years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series A units of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	17.1%	January 31, 2015	Your investment would rise to $1,171
Worst return	-21.8%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $782

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series A units of the Fund 10 years ago now has $1,260. This works out to an annual compound return of 2.34%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Seek long-term growth potential and income
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Want to invest in global real estate securities
- Are comfortable with medium risk

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series A units of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

You may pay a sales charge when you buy Series A units of the Fund.

Sales charge option	What you pay		How it works
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	0% to 5% of the amount you pay	$0 to $50 on every $1,000 you pay	■ You and your representative decide on the rate ■ The initial sales charge is deducted from the amount you pay. It goes to your representative's firm as a commission

Invesco Global Real Estate Fund - Series A

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series A were 3.13% of the value of this series. This equals $31.30 for every $1,000 invested.

	Annual rate (as a % of the Fund's value)
Management expense ratio (MER) This is the total of the Fund's management fee (which includes the trailing commission) and operating expenses. Invesco Canada Ltd. waived some of the Fund's expenses. If it had not done so, the MER would have been higher.	2.97%
Trading expense ratio (TER) This is the Fund's trading costs.	0.16%
Fund expenses	3.13%

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.50% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.50% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

¹ 1.00% after seven years. ² 1.00% after four years.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series A units of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the units you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

What if I change my mind?

Under securities law in some provinces and territories, you have the right to:

- withdraw from an agreement to buy mutual funds within two business days after you receive a simplified prospectus or Fund Facts document,

or

- cancel your purchase within 48 hours after you receive confirmation of the purchase.

In some provinces and territories, you also have the right to cancel a purchase or, in some jurisdictions, claim damages if the simplified prospectus, Fund Facts document or financial statements contain a misrepresentation. You must act within the time limit set by the securities legislation in your province or territory.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco Global Real Estate Fund - Series PTF

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series PTF units of the Fund have performed over the past eight years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series PTF units of the Fund performed in each of the past eight years. The Fund dropped in value in three of the eight years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series PTF units of the Fund in a three-month period over the past eight years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	13.4%	March 31, 2015	Your investment would rise to $1,134
Worst return	-21.4%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $786

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series PTF units of the Fund at its inception now has $1,252. This works out to an annual compound return of 2.67%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Seek long-term growth potential and income
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Want to invest in global real estate securities
- Are comfortable with medium risk

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series PTF units of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

There are no sales charges for Series PTF units of the Fund.

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series PTF were 1.18% of the value of this series. This equals $11.80 for every $1,000 invested.

More about the trailing commission

Invesco Canada Ltd. does not pay trailing commissions in respect of Series PTF units of the Fund.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series PTF units of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Investment advisory fee	You may buy and hold this series of units in an account where you pay for advice directly to your representative's firm (in whatever form agreed to between you and your representative's firm), rather than through Invesco Canada Ltd. (either directly or indirectly). Your representative's firm may charge you an investment advisory fee which you negotiate with your representative.

What if I change my mind?

Under securities law in some provinces and territories, you have the right to:

- withdraw from an agreement to buy mutual funds within two business days after you receive a simplified prospectus or Fund Facts document,

or

What does the Fund invest in?

The Fund invests in a diversified mix of mutual funds and exchange-traded funds. Most of the underlying funds invest primarily in fixed-income securities, and the remainder invest primarily in common shares and other equity securities. To reduce the impact of exchange-rate fluctuations, ordinarily derivatives are used to hedge approximately half of the Fund's foreign-currency exposure, though active decisions may be made to increase or decrease this hedge.

We will switch your Series A units into Series P units of the Fund, which have a lower annual management and advisory fee, once your investment amount in related Invesco accounts meets the Private Investor Series eligibility requirement of $100,000. The annual fee decrease from Series A to Series P is 0.10%. If you no longer meet the eligibility requirements for Series P, we will switch your units back into Series A units. See "Purchases, switches and redemptions" in the Fund's simplified prospectus and speak to your representative for additional details.

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	0.75% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $7.50 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.35% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $3.50 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	0.75% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $7.50 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.35% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $3.50 each year for every $1,000 invested.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series A units of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the units you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

What does the Fund invest in?

The Fund invests in a diversified mix of mutual funds and exchange-traded funds. Most of the underlying funds invest primarily in fixed-income securities, and the remainder invest primarily in common shares and other equity securities. To reduce the impact of exchange-rate fluctuations, ordinarily derivatives are used to hedge approximately half of the Fund's foreign-currency exposure, though active decisions may be made to increase or decrease this hedge.

The charts below give you a snapshot of the Fund's investments on May 31, 2023. The Fund's investments will change.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Low to medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco Intactive Diversified Income Portfolio - Series F

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series F units of the Fund have performed over the past 10 years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series F units of the Fund performed in each of the past 10 years. The Fund dropped in value in two of the 10 years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series F units of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	10.9%	June 30, 2020	Your investment would rise to $1,109
Worst return	-11.6%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $884

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series F units of the Fund 10 years ago now has $1,334. This works out to an annual compound return of 2.92%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want to generate income and modest capital appreciation over the long term
- Are looking for a well-diversified investment
- Are comfortable with low to medium risk

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series F units of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

There are no sales charges for Series F units of the Fund.

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series F were 0.96% of the value of this series. This equals $9.60 for every $1,000 invested.

More about the trailing commission

Invesco Canada Ltd. does not pay trailing commissions in respect of Series F units of the Fund.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series F units of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Investment advisory fee	If you hold this series of units in a fee-based account at your representative's firm, your representative's firm may charge you an investment advisory fee which you negotiate with your representative. Invesco Canada Ltd. may have an arrangement with your representative's firm to collect the investment advisory fee (plus any applicable taxes) from you on behalf of your representative's firm. Where such an arrangement exists, the maximum annual investment advisory fee that we will collect from you is 1.50% (excluding applicable taxes) and the fee (plus any applicable taxes) is collected by redeeming some of the units you own of the Fund.
Fees for services	If you hold this series of units in an account with a dealer that does not make a suitability determination, such as a discount broker, your dealer may charge you fees when you buy, switch, and/or redeem such units. You should confirm these fees with your dealer.

What does the Fund invest in?

The Fund invests in a diversified mix of mutual funds and exchange-traded funds. Most of the underlying funds invest primarily in fixed-income securities, and the remainder invest primarily in common shares and other equity securities. To reduce the impact of exchange-rate fluctuations, ordinarily derivatives are used to hedge approximately half of the Fund's foreign-currency exposure, though active decisions may be made to increase or decrease this hedge.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Low to medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco Intactive Diversified Income Portfolio - Series T4

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series T4 units of the Fund have performed over the past 10 years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series T4 units of the Fund performed in each of the past 10 years. The Fund dropped in value in three of the 10 years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series T4 units of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	10.6%	June 30, 2020	Your investment would rise to $1,106
Worst return	-11.8%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $882

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series T4 units of the Fund 10 years ago now has $1,218. This works out to an annual compound return of 1.99%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want to generate income and modest capital appreciation over the long term
- Are looking for a well-diversified investment
- Are comfortable with low to medium risk

Series T4 is appropriate for investors who want to receive regular distributions.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series T4 units of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

You may pay a sales charge when you buy Series T4 units of the Fund.

Sales charge option	What you pay		How it works
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	0% to 5% of the amount you pay	$0 to $50 on every $1,000 you pay	■ You and your representative decide on the rate ■ The initial sales charge is deducted from the amount you pay. It goes to your representative's firm as a commission

Invesco Intactive Diversified Income Portfolio - Series T4

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series T4 were 2.00% of the value of this series. This equals $20.00 for every $1,000 invested.

	Annual rate (as a % of the Fund's value)
Management expense ratio (MER) This is the total of the Fund's management fee (which includes the trailing commission) and operating expenses. Invesco Canada Ltd. waived some of the Fund's expenses. If it had not done so, the MER would have been higher.	1.93%
Trading expense ratio (TER) This is the Fund's trading costs.	0.07%
Fund expenses	2.00%

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	0.75% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $7.50 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.35% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $3.50 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	0.75% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $7.50 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.35% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $3.50 each year for every $1,000 invested.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series T4 units of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the units you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

What if I change my mind?

Under securities law in some provinces and territories, you have the right to:

- withdraw from an agreement to buy mutual funds within two business days after you receive a simplified prospectus or Fund Facts document,

or

- cancel your purchase within 48 hours after you receive confirmation of the purchase.

In some provinces and territories, you also have the right to cancel a purchase or, in some jurisdictions, claim damages if the simplified prospectus, Fund Facts document or financial statements contain a misrepresentation. You must act within the time limit set by the securities legislation in your province or territory.

For more information, see the securities law of your province or territory or ask a lawyer.

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series A were 2.02% of the value of this series. This equals $20.20 for every $1,000 invested.

	Annual rate (as a % of the Fund's value)
Management expense ratio (MER) This is the total of the Fund's management fee (which includes the trailing commission) and operating expenses. Invesco Canada Ltd. waived some of the Fund's expenses. If it had not done so, the MER would have been higher.	1.95%
Trading expense ratio (TER) This is the Fund's trading costs.	0.07%
Fund expenses	2.02%

We will switch your Series A shares into Series P shares of the Fund, which have a lower annual management and advisory fee, once your investment amount in related Invesco accounts meets the Private Investor Series eligibility requirement of $100,000. The annual fee decrease from Series A to Series P is 0.10%. If you no longer meet the eligibility requirements for Series P, we will switch your shares back into Series A shares. See "Purchases, switches and redemptions" in the Fund's simplified prospectus and speak to your representative for additional details.

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	0.75% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $7.50 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.35% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $3.50 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	0.75% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $7.50 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.35% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $3.50 each year for every $1,000 invested.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series A shares of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the shares you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Low to medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco Intactive Diversified Income Portfolio Class - Series F

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series F shares of the Fund have performed over the past 10 years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series F shares of the Fund performed in each of the past 10 years. The Fund dropped in value in two of the 10 years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series F shares of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	10.8%	June 30, 2020	Your investment would rise to $1,108
Worst return	-11.7%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $883

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series F shares of the Fund 10 years ago now has $1,331. This works out to an annual compound return of 2.90%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want to generate income and modest capital appreciation over the long term
- Are looking for a well-diversified investment
- Are comfortable with low to medium risk

The Fund is most appropriate for investors who want an investment for a non-registered account. It may not be suitable for investors who want an investment for a registered plan (e.g. RRSPs, RRIFFs, LIFs, LIRAs, LRIFs, PRIFs, LRSPs, RDSPs, RESPs, TFSAs, FHSAs, RLSPs and RLIFs).

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series F shares of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

There are no sales charges for Series F shares of the Fund.

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series F were 0.93% of the value of this series. This equals $9.30 for every $1,000 invested.

The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series F6 shares of the Fund in a three-month period over the past seven years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	10.8%	June 30, 2020	Your investment would rise to $1,108
Worst return	-11.7%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $883

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series F6 shares of the Fund at its inception now has $1,218. This works out to an annual compound return of 2.67%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want to generate income and modest capital appreciation over the long term
- Are looking for a well-diversified investment
- Are comfortable with low to medium risk

Series F6 is appropriate for investors who want to receive regular distributions.

The Fund is most appropriate for investors who want an investment for a non-registered account. It may not be suitable for investors who want an investment for a registered plan (e.g. RRSPs, RRIFs, LIFs, LIRAs, LRIFs, PRIFs, LRSPs, RDSPs, RESPs, TFSA, FHSA, RLSPs and RLIFs).

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series F6 shares of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

There are no sales charges for Series F6 shares of the Fund.

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series F6 were 0.96% of the value of this series. This equals $9.60 for every $1,000 invested.

More about the trailing commission

Invesco Canada Ltd. does not pay trailing commissions in respect of Series F6 shares of the Fund.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series F6 shares of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Investment advisory fee	If you hold this series of shares in a fee-based account at your representative's firm, your representative's firm may charge you an investment advisory fee which you negotiate with your representative. Invesco Canada Ltd. may have an arrangement with your representative's firm to collect the investment advisory fee (plus any applicable taxes) from you on behalf of your representative's firm. Where such an arrangement exists, the maximum annual investment advisory fee that we will collect from you is 1.50% (excluding applicable taxes) and the fee (plus any applicable taxes) is collected by redeeming some of the shares you own of the Fund.
Fees for services	If you hold this series of shares in an account with a dealer that does not make a suitability determination, such as a discount broker, your dealer may charge you fees when you buy, switch, and/or redeem such shares. You should confirm these fees with your dealer.

What if I change my mind?

Under securities law in some provinces and territories, you have the right to:

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Low to medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Low to medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco Intactive Diversified Income Portfolio Class - Series PT6

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series PT6 shares of the Fund have performed over the past 10 years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series PT6 shares of the Fund performed in each of the past 10 years. The Fund dropped in value in three of the 10 years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series PT6 shares of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	10.6%	June 30, 2020	Your investment would rise to $1,106
Worst return	-11.8%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $882

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series PT6 shares of the Fund 10 years ago now has $1,242. This works out to an annual compound return of 2.19%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want to generate income and modest capital appreciation over the long term
- Are looking for a well-diversified investment
- Are comfortable with low to medium risk

Series PT6 is appropriate for investors who want to receive regular distributions.

The Fund is most appropriate for investors who want an investment for a non-registered account. It may not be suitable for investors who want an investment for a registered plan (e.g. RRSPs, RRIAs, LIFs, LIRAs, LRIFs, PRIFs, LRSPs, RDSPs, RESPs, TFSA, FHSA, RLSPs and RLIFs).

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series PT6 shares of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

You may pay a sales charge when you buy Series PT6 shares of the Fund.

Sales charge option	What you pay		How it works
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	0% to 5% of the amount you pay	$0 to $50 on every $1,000 you pay	■ You and your representative decide on the rate ■ The initial sales charge is deducted from the amount you pay. It goes to your representative's firm as a commission

Invesco Intactive Diversified Income Portfolio Class - Series PT6

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series PT6 were 1.80% of the value of this series. This equals $18.00 for every $1,000 invested.

	Annual rate (as a % of the Fund's value)
Management expense ratio (MER) This is the total of the Fund's management fee (which includes the trailing commission) and operating expenses.	1.73%
Trading expense ratio (TER) This is the Fund's trading costs.	0.07%
Fund expenses	1.80%

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	0.75% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $7.50 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.35% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $3.50 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	0.75% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $7.50 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.35% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $3.50 each year for every $1,000 invested.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series PT6 shares of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the shares you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

What if I change my mind?

Under securities law in some provinces and territories, you have the right to:

- withdraw from an agreement to buy mutual funds within two business days after you receive a simplified prospectus or Fund Facts document,

or

- cancel your purchase within 48 hours after you receive confirmation of the purchase.

In some provinces and territories, you also have the right to cancel a purchase or, in some jurisdictions, claim damages if the simplified prospectus, Fund Facts document or financial statements contain a misrepresentation. You must act within the time limit set by the securities legislation in your province or territory.

For more information, see the securities law of your province or territory or ask a lawyer.

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series T6 were 1.93% of the value of this series. This equals $19.30 for every $1,000 invested.

	Annual rate (as a % of the Fund's value)
Management expense ratio (MER) This is the total of the Fund's management fee (which includes the trailing commission) and operating expenses. Invesco Canada Ltd. waived some of the Fund's expenses. If it had not done so, the MER would have been higher.	1.86%
Trading expense ratio (TER) This is the Fund's trading costs.	0.07%
Fund expenses	1.93%

We will switch your Series T6 shares into Series PT6 shares of the Fund, which have a lower annual management and advisory fee, once your investment amount in related Invesco accounts meets the Private Investor Series eligibility requirement of $100,000. The annual fee decrease from Series T6 to Series PT6 is 0.10%. If you no longer meet the eligibility requirements for Series PT6, we will switch your shares back into Series T6 shares. See "Purchases, switches and redemptions" in the Fund's simplified prospectus and speak to your representative for additional details.

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	0.75% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $7.50 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.35% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $3.50 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	0.75% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $7.50 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.35% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $3.50 each year for every $1,000 invested.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series T6 shares of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the shares you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

What does the Fund invest in?

The Fund invests in a diversified mix of mutual funds and exchange-traded funds. Most of the underlying funds invest primarily in fixed-income securities, and the remainder invest primarily in common shares and other equity securities. To reduce the impact of exchange-rate fluctuations, ordinarily derivatives are used to hedge approximately half of the Fund's foreign-currency exposure, though active decisions may be made to increase or decrease this hedge.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Low to medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco Intactive Balanced Income Portfolio - Series A

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series A units of the Fund have performed over the past 10 years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series A units of the Fund performed in each of the past 10 years. The Fund dropped in value in three of the 10 years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series A units of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	10.8%	June 30, 2020	Your investment would rise to $1,108
Worst return	-12.9%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $871

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series A units of the Fund 10 years ago now has $1,222. This works out to an annual compound return of 2.03%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want a balanced portfolio to achieve both income and capital appreciation over the long term
- Are willing to accept some fluctuations in the value of the portfolio over the short-to-medium term
- Are looking for a well-diversified investment
- Are comfortable with low to medium risk

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series A units of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

You may pay a sales charge when you buy Series A units of the Fund.

Sales charge option	What you pay		How it works
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	0% to 5% of the amount you pay	$0 to $50 on every $1,000 you pay	■ You and your representative decide on the rate ■ The initial sales charge is deducted from the amount you pay. It goes to your representative's firm as a commission

Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Low to medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco Intactive Balanced Income Portfolio - Series I

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series I units of the Fund have performed over the past 10 years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series I units of the Fund performed in each of the past 10 years. The Fund dropped in value in two of the 10 years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series I units of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	11.3%	June 30, 2020	Your investment would rise to $1,113
Worst return	-12.5%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $875

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series I units of the Fund 10 years ago now has $1,487. This works out to an annual compound return of 4.05%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want a balanced portfolio to achieve both income and capital appreciation over the long term
- Are willing to accept some fluctuations in the value of the portfolio over the short-to-medium term
- Are looking for a well-diversified investment
- Are comfortable with low to medium risk

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series I units of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

There are no sales charges for Series I units of the Fund.

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns. Investors negotiate and pay the management and advisory fees for Series I units directly. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays all operating expenses.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series I were 0.08% of the value of this series. This equals $0.80 for every $1,000 invested.

More about the trailing commission

Invesco Canada Ltd. does not pay trailing commissions in respect of Series I units of the Fund.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series I units of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Management and advisory fee	Investors negotiate and pay the management and advisory fee for Series I units directly. The maximum annual management and advisory fee that may be payable to Invesco Canada Ltd. is 1.75%.

What if I change my mind?

Under securities law in some provinces and territories, you have the right to:

- withdraw from an agreement to buy mutual funds within two business days after you receive a simplified prospectus or Fund Facts document,

or

- cancel your purchase within 48 hours after you receive confirmation of the purchase.

In some provinces and territories, you also have the right to cancel a purchase or, in some jurisdictions, claim damages if the simplified prospectus, Fund Facts document or financial statements contain a misrepresentation. You must act within the time limit set by the securities legislation in your province or territory.

What does the Fund invest in?

The Fund invests in a diversified mix of mutual funds and exchange-traded funds. Most of the underlying funds invest primarily in fixed-income securities, and the remainder invest primarily in common shares and other equity securities. To reduce the impact of exchange-rate fluctuations, ordinarily derivatives are used to hedge approximately half of the Fund's foreign-currency exposure, though active decisions may be made to increase or decrease this hedge.

What does the Fund invest in?

The Fund invests in a diversified mix of mutual funds and exchange-traded funds. Most of the underlying funds invest primarily in fixed-income securities, and the remainder invest primarily in common shares and other equity securities. To reduce the impact of exchange-rate fluctuations, ordinarily derivatives are used to hedge approximately half of the Fund's foreign-currency exposure, though active decisions may be made to increase or decrease this hedge.

The charts below give you a snapshot of the Fund's investments on May 31, 2023. The Fund's investments will change.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Low to medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco Intactive Balanced Income Portfolio - Series T6

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series T6 units of the Fund have performed over the past 10 years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series T6 units of the Fund performed in each of the past 10 years. The Fund dropped in value in three of the 10 years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series T6 units of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	10.7%	June 30, 2020	Your investment would rise to $1,107
Worst return	-12.9%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $871

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series T6 units of the Fund 10 years ago now has $1,214. This works out to an annual compound return of 1.96%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want a balanced portfolio to achieve both income and capital appreciation over the long term
- Are willing to accept some fluctuations in the value of the portfolio over the short-to-medium term
- Are looking for a well-diversified investment
- Are comfortable with low to medium risk

Series T6 is appropriate for investors who want to receive regular distributions.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series T6 units of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

You may pay a sales charge when you buy Series T6 units of the Fund.

Sales charge option	What you pay		How it works
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	0% to 5% of the amount you pay	$0 to $50 on every $1,000 you pay	■ You and your representative decide on the rate ■ The initial sales charge is deducted from the amount you pay. It goes to your representative's firm as a commission

Invesco Intactive Balanced Income Portfolio - Series T6

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series T6 were 2.31% of the value of this series. This equals $23.10 for every $1,000 invested.

	Annual rate (as a % of the Fund's value)
Management expense ratio (MER) This is the total of the Fund's management fee (which includes the trailing commission) and operating expenses. Invesco Canada Ltd. waived some of the Fund's expenses. If it had not done so, the MER would have been higher.	2.23%
Trading expense ratio (TER) This is the Fund's trading costs.	0.08%
Fund expenses	2.31%

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.50% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.50% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

¹ 1.00% after seven years. ² 1.00% after four years.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series T6 units of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the units you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

What if I change my mind?

Under securities law in some provinces and territories, you have the right to:

- withdraw from an agreement to buy mutual funds within two business days after you receive a simplified prospectus or Fund Facts document,

or

- cancel your purchase within 48 hours after you receive confirmation of the purchase.

In some provinces and territories, you also have the right to cancel a purchase or, in some jurisdictions, claim damages if the simplified prospectus, Fund Facts document or financial statements contain a misrepresentation. You must act within the time limit set by the securities legislation in your province or territory.

For more information, see the securities law of your province or territory or ask a lawyer.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Low to medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco Intactive Balanced Income Portfolio Class - Series F4

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series F4 shares of the Fund have performed over the past seven years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series F4 shares of the Fund performed in each of the past seven years. The Fund dropped in value in two of the seven years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series F4 shares of the Fund in a three-month period over the past seven years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	11.1%	June 30, 2020	Your investment would rise to $1,111
Worst return	-12.7%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $873

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series F4 shares of the Fund at its inception now has $1,244. This works out to an annual compound return of 2.95%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want a balanced portfolio to achieve both income and capital appreciation over the long term
- Are willing to accept some fluctuations in the value of the portfolio over the short-to-medium term
- Are looking for a well-diversified investment
- Are comfortable with low to medium risk

Series F4 is appropriate for investors who want to receive regular distributions.

The Fund is most appropriate for investors who want an investment for a non-registered account. It may not be suitable for investors who want an investment for a registered plan (e.g. RRSPs, RRIFs, LIFs, LIRAs, LRIFs, PRIFs, LRSPs, RDSPs, RESPs, TFSA, FHSA, RLSPs and RLIFs).

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series F4 shares of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

There are no sales charges for Series F4 shares of the Fund.

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series F4 were 0.98% of the value of this series. This equals $9.80 for every $1,000 invested.

More about the trailing commission

Invesco Canada Ltd. does not pay trailing commissions in respect of Series F4 shares of the Fund.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series F4 shares of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Investment advisory fee	If you hold this series of shares in a fee-based account at your representative's firm, your representative's firm may charge you an investment advisory fee which you negotiate with your representative. Invesco Canada Ltd. may have an arrangement with your representative's firm to collect the investment advisory fee (plus any applicable taxes) from you on behalf of your representative's firm. Where such an arrangement exists, the maximum annual investment advisory fee that we will collect from you is 1.50% (excluding applicable taxes) and the fee (plus any applicable taxes) is collected by redeeming some of the shares you own of the Fund.
Fees for services	If you hold this series of shares in an account with a dealer that does not make a suitability determination, such as a discount broker, your dealer may charge you fees when you buy, switch, and/or redeem such shares. You should confirm these fees with your dealer.

What if I change my mind?

Under securities law in some provinces and territories, you have the right to:

- withdraw from an agreement to buy mutual funds within two business days after you receive a simplified prospectus or Fund Facts document,

or

- cancel your purchase within 48 hours after you receive confirmation of the purchase.

In some provinces and territories, you also have the right to cancel a purchase or, in some jurisdictions, claim damages if the simplified prospectus, Fund Facts document or financial statements contain a misrepresentation. You must act within the time limit set by the securities legislation in your province or territory.

For more information, see the securities law of your province or territory or ask a lawyer.

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.50% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.50% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

¹ 1.00% after seven years. ² 1.00% after four years.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series P shares of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the shares you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Low to medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco Intactive Balanced Income Portfolio Class - Series PT4

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series PT4 shares of the Fund have performed over the past nine years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series PT4 shares of the Fund performed in each of the past nine years. The Fund dropped in value in three of the nine years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series PT4 shares of the Fund in a three-month period over the past nine years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	10.8%	June 30, 2020	Your investment would rise to $1,108
Worst return	-12.9%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $871

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series PT4 shares of the Fund at its inception now has $1,232. This works out to an annual compound return of 2.21%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want a balanced portfolio to achieve both income and capital appreciation over the long term
- Are willing to accept some fluctuations in the value of the portfolio over the short-to-medium term
- Are looking for a well-diversified investment
- Are comfortable with low to medium risk

Series PT4 is appropriate for investors who want to receive regular distributions.

The Fund is most appropriate for investors who want an investment for a non-registered account. It may not be suitable for investors who want an investment for a registered plan (e.g. RRSPs, RRIFs, LIFs, LIRAs, LRIFs, PRIFs, LRSPs, RDSPs, RESPs, TFSA, FHSA, RLSPs and RLIFs).

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series PT4 shares of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

Invesco Intactive Balanced Income Portfolio Class - Series PT4

1. Sales charges

You may pay a sales charge when you buy Series PT4 shares of the Fund.

Sales charge option	What you pay		How it works
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	0% to 5% of the amount you pay	$0 to $50 on every $1,000 you pay	■ You and your representative decide on the rate ■ The initial sales charge is deducted from the amount you pay. It goes to your representative's firm as a commission

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series PT4 were 2.22% of the value of this series. This equals $22.20 for every $1,000 invested.

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series T4 shares of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	10.7%	June 30, 2020	Your investment would rise to $1,107
Worst return	-12.9%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $871

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series T4 shares of the Fund 10 years ago now has $1,210. This works out to an annual compound return of 1.92%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want a balanced portfolio to achieve both income and capital appreciation over the long term
- Are willing to accept some fluctuations in the value of the portfolio over the short-to-medium term
- Are looking for a well-diversified investment
- Are comfortable with low to medium risk

Series T4 is appropriate for investors who want to receive regular distributions.

The Fund is most appropriate for investors who want an investment for a non-registered account. It may not be suitable for investors who want an investment for a registered plan (e.g. RRSPs, RRIFs, LIFs, LIRAs, LRIFs, PRIFs, LRSPs, RDSPs, RESPs, TFSA, FHSA, RLSPs and RLIFs).

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series T4 shares of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

Invesco Intactive Balanced Income Portfolio Class - Series T4

1. Sales charges

You may pay a sales charge when you buy Series T4 shares of the Fund.

We will switch your Series T4 shares into Series PT4 shares of the Fund, which have a lower annual management and advisory fee, once your investment amount in related Invesco accounts meets the Private Investor Series eligibility requirement of $100,000. The annual fee decrease from Series T4 to Series PT4 is 0.10%. If you no longer meet the eligibility requirements for Series PT4, we will switch your shares back into Series T4 shares. See "Purchases, switches and redemptions" in the Fund's simplified prospectus and speak to your representative for additional details.

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.50% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.50% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

¹ 1.00% after seven years. ² 1.00% after four years.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series T4 shares of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the shares you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Low to medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

What does the Fund invest in?

The Fund invests in a diversified mix of mutual funds and exchange-traded funds. Most of the underlying funds invest primarily in common shares and other equity securities, and the remainder invest primarily in fixed-income securities. To reduce the impact of exchange-rate fluctuations, ordinarily derivatives are used to hedge approximately half of the Fund's foreign-currency exposure, though active decisions may be made to increase or decrease this hedge.

What does the Fund invest in?

The Fund invests in a diversified mix of mutual funds and exchange-traded funds. Most of the underlying funds invest primarily in common shares and other equity securities, and the remainder invest primarily in fixed-income securities. To reduce the impact of exchange-rate fluctuations, ordinarily derivatives are used to hedge approximately half of the Fund's foreign-currency exposure, though active decisions may be made to increase or decrease this hedge.

The charts below give you a snapshot of the Fund's investments on May 31, 2023. The Fund's investments will change.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Low to medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco Intactive Balanced Growth Portfolio - Series F

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series F units of the Fund have performed over the past 10 years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series F units of the Fund performed in each of the past 10 years. The Fund dropped in value in three of the 10 years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series F units of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	12.2%	June 30, 2020	Your investment would rise to $1,122
Worst return	-15.7%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $843

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series F units of the Fund 10 years ago now has $1,433. This works out to an annual compound return of 3.66%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want a balanced portfolio with an emphasis on capital appreciation over the long term
- Are willing to accept some fluctuations in the value of the portfolio over the short-to-medium term
- Are looking for a well-diversified investment
- Are comfortable with low to medium risk

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series F units of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

There are no sales charges for Series F units of the Fund.

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series F were 1.00% of the value of this series. This equals $10.00 for every $1,000 invested.

More about the trailing commission

Invesco Canada Ltd. does not pay trailing commissions in respect of Series F units of the Fund.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series F units of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Investment advisory fee	If you hold this series of units in a fee-based account at your representative's firm, your representative's firm may charge you an investment advisory fee which you negotiate with your representative. Invesco Canada Ltd. may have an arrangement with your representative's firm to collect the investment advisory fee (plus any applicable taxes) from you on behalf of your representative's firm. Where such an arrangement exists, the maximum annual investment advisory fee that we will collect from you is 1.50% (excluding applicable taxes) and the fee (plus any applicable taxes) is collected by redeeming some of the units you own of the Fund.
Fees for services	If you hold this series of units in an account with a dealer that does not make a suitability determination, such as a discount broker, your dealer may charge you fees when you buy, switch, and/or redeem such units. You should confirm these fees with your dealer.

What if I change my mind?

Under securities law in some provinces and territories, you have the right to:

- withdraw from an agreement to buy mutual funds within two business days after you receive a simplified prospectus or Fund Facts document,

or

- cancel your purchase within 48 hours after you receive confirmation of the purchase.

In some provinces and territories, you also have the right to cancel a purchase or, in some jurisdictions, claim damages if the simplified prospectus, Fund Facts document or financial statements contain a misrepresentation. You must act within the time limit set by the securities legislation in your province or territory.

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Low to medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco Intactive Balanced Growth Portfolio - Series T4

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series T4 units of the Fund have performed over the past 10 years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series T4 units of the Fund performed in each of the past 10 years. The Fund dropped in value in three of the 10 years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series T4 units of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	11.9%	June 30, 2020	Your investment would rise to $1,119
Worst return	-16.0%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $840

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series T4 units of the Fund 10 years ago now has $1,271. This works out to an annual compound return of 2.42%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want a balanced portfolio with an emphasis on capital appreciation over the long term
- Are willing to accept some fluctuations in the value of the portfolio over the short-to-medium term
- Are looking for a well-diversified investment
- Are comfortable with low to medium risk

Series T4 is appropriate for investors who want to receive regular distributions.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series T4 units of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

You may pay a sales charge when you buy Series T4 units of the Fund.

Sales charge option	What you pay		How it works
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	0% to 5% of the amount you pay	$0 to $50 on every $1,000 you pay	■ You and your representative decide on the rate ■ The initial sales charge is deducted from the amount you pay. It goes to your representative's firm as a commission

Invesco Intactive Balanced Growth Portfolio - Series T4

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series T4 were 2.40% of the value of this series. This equals $24.00 for every $1,000 invested.

	Annual rate (as a % of the Fund's value)
Management expense ratio (MER) This is the total of the Fund's management fee (which includes the trailing commission) and operating expenses.	2.31%
Trading expense ratio (TER) This is the Fund's trading costs.	0.09%
Fund expenses	2.40%

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.50% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.50% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

¹ 1.00% after seven years. ² 1.00% after four years.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series T4 units of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the units you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

What if I change my mind?

Under securities law in some provinces and territories, you have the right to:

- withdraw from an agreement to buy mutual funds within two business days after you receive a simplified prospectus or Fund Facts document,

or

- cancel your purchase within 48 hours after you receive confirmation of the purchase.

In some provinces and territories, you also have the right to cancel a purchase or, in some jurisdictions, claim damages if the simplified prospectus, Fund Facts document or financial statements contain a misrepresentation. You must act within the time limit set by the securities legislation in your province or territory.

For more information, see the securities law of your province or territory or ask a lawyer.

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series T8 units of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

You may pay a sales charge when you buy Series T8 units of the Fund.

Sales charge option	What you pay		How it works
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	0% to 5% of the amount you pay	$0 to $50 on every $1,000 you pay	■ You and your representative decide on the rate ■ The initial sales charge is deducted from the amount you pay. It goes to your representative's firm as a commission

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series T8 were 2.35% of the value of this series. This equals $23.50 for every $1,000 invested.

	Annual rate (as a % of the Fund's value)

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.50% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.50% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

¹ 1.00% after seven years. ² 1.00% after four years.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series T8 units of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the units you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

What if I change my mind?

Under securities law in some provinces and territories, you have the right to:

- withdraw from an agreement to buy mutual funds within two business days after you receive a simplified prospectus or Fund Facts document,

or

- cancel your purchase within 48 hours after you receive confirmation of the purchase.

In some provinces and territories, you also have the right to cancel a purchase or, in some jurisdictions, claim damages if the simplified prospectus, Fund Facts document or financial statements contain a misrepresentation. You must act within the time limit set by the securities legislation in your province or territory.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Low to medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco Intactive Balanced Growth Portfolio Class - Series A

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series A shares of the Fund have performed over the past 10 years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series A shares of the Fund performed in each of the past 10 years. The Fund dropped in value in three of the 10 years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series A shares of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	11.8%	June 30, 2020	Your investment would rise to $1,118
Worst return	-15.9%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $841

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series A shares of the Fund 10 years ago now has $1,275. This works out to an annual compound return of 2.46%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want a balanced portfolio with an emphasis on capital appreciation over the long term
- Are willing to accept some fluctuations in the value of the portfolio over the short-to-medium term
- Are looking for a well-diversified investment
- Are comfortable with low to medium risk

The Fund is most appropriate for investors who want an investment for a non-registered account. It may not be suitable for investors who want an investment for a registered plan (e.g. RRSPs, RRIFs, LIFs, LIRAs, LRIFs, PRIFs, LRSPs, RDSPs, RESPs, TFSA, FHSA, RLSPs and RLIFs).

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series A shares of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Low to medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco Intactive Balanced Growth Portfolio Class - Series P

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series P shares of the Fund have performed over the past 10 years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series P shares of the Fund performed in each of the past 10 years. The Fund dropped in value in three of the 10 years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series P shares of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	11.9%	June 30, 2020	Your investment would rise to $1,119
Worst return	-15.9%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $841

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series P shares of the Fund 10 years ago now has $1,294. This works out to an annual compound return of 2.61%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want a balanced portfolio with an emphasis on capital appreciation over the long term
- Are willing to accept some fluctuations in the value of the portfolio over the short-to-medium term
- Are looking for a well-diversified investment
- Are comfortable with low to medium risk

The Fund is most appropriate for investors who want an investment for a non-registered account. It may not be suitable for investors who want an investment for a registered plan (e.g. RRSPs, RRIFs, LIFs, LIRAs, LRIFs, PRIFs, LRSPs, RDSPs, RESPs, TFSA, FHSA, RLSPs and RLIFs).

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series P shares of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.50% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.50% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

¹ 1.00% after seven years. ² 1.00% after four years.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series P shares of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the shares you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Low to medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Low to medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco Intactive Balanced Growth Portfolio Class - Series PT8

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series PT8 shares of the Fund have performed over the past five years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series PT8 shares of the Fund performed in each of the past five years. The Fund dropped in value in two of the five years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series PT8 shares of the Fund in a three-month period over the past five years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	11.9%	June 30, 2020	Your investment would rise to $1,119
Worst return	-15.9%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $841

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series PT8 shares of the Fund at its inception now has $1,060. This works out to an annual compound return of 1.07%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want a balanced portfolio with an emphasis on capital appreciation over the long term
- Are willing to accept some fluctuations in the value of the portfolio over the short-to-medium term
- Are looking for a well-diversified investment
- Are comfortable with low to medium risk

Series PT8 is appropriate for investors who want to receive regular distributions.

The Fund is most appropriate for investors who want an investment for a non-registered account. It may not be suitable for investors who want an investment for a registered plan (e.g. RRSPs, RRIFs, LIFs, LIRAs, LRIFs, PRIFs, LRSPs, RDSPs, RESPs, TFSA, FHSA, RLSPs and RLIFs).

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series PT8 shares of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

Invesco Intactive Balanced Growth Portfolio Class - Series PT8

1. Sales charges

You may pay a sales charge when you buy Series PT8 shares of the Fund.

Sales charge option	What you pay		How it works
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	0% to 5% of the amount you pay	$0 to $50 on every $1,000 you pay	■ You and your representative decide on the rate ■ The initial sales charge is deducted from the amount you pay. It goes to your representative's firm as a commission

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series PT8 were 2.26% of the value of this series. This equals $22.60 for every $1,000 invested.

	Annual rate (as a % of the Fund's value)
Management expense ratio (MER) This is the total of the Fund's management fee (which includes the trailing commission) and operating expenses.	2.17%
Trading expense ratio (TER) This is the Fund's trading costs.	0.09%
Fund expenses	2.26%

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.50% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.50% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

¹ 1.00% after seven years. ² 1.00% after four years.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series PT8 shares of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the shares you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

The Fund is most appropriate for investors who want an investment for a non-registered account. It may not be suitable for investors who want an investment for a registered plan (e.g. RRSPs, RRIFs, LIFs, LIRAs, LRIFs, PRIFs, LRSPs, RDSPs, RESPs, TFSA, FHSA, RLSPs and RLIFs).

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series T6 shares of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

Invesco Intactive Balanced Growth Portfolio Class - Series T6

1. Sales charges

You may pay a sales charge when you buy Series T6 shares of the Fund.

Sales charge option	What you pay		How it works
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	0% to 5% of the amount you pay	$0 to $50 on every $1,000 you pay	- You and your representative decide on the rate - The initial sales charge is deducted from the amount you pay. It goes to your representative's firm as a commission

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series T6 were 2.38% of the value of this series. This equals $23.80 for every $1,000 invested.

We will switch your Series T6 shares into Series PT6 shares of the Fund, which have a lower annual management and advisory fee, once your investment amount in related Invesco accounts meets the Private Investor Series eligibility requirement of $100,000. The annual fee decrease from Series T6 to Series PT6 is 0.10%. If you no longer meet the eligibility requirements for Series PT6, we will switch your shares back into Series T6 shares. See "Purchases, switches and redemptions" in the Fund's simplified prospectus and speak to your representative for additional details.

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.50% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.50% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

¹ 1.00% after seven years. ² 1.00% after four years.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series T6 shares of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the shares you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Low to medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco Intactive Balanced Growth Portfolio Class - Series T8

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series T8 shares of the Fund have performed over the past 10 years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series T8 shares of the Fund performed in each of the past 10 years. The Fund dropped in value in three of the 10 years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series T8 shares of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	11.8%	June 30, 2020	Your investment would rise to $1,118
Worst return	-16.0%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $840

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series T8 shares of the Fund 10 years ago now has $1,270. This works out to an annual compound return of 2.42%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want a balanced portfolio with an emphasis on capital appreciation over the long term
- Are willing to accept some fluctuations in the value of the portfolio over the short-to-medium term
- Are looking for a well-diversified investment
- Are comfortable with low to medium risk

Series T8 is appropriate for investors who want to receive regular distributions.

The Fund is most appropriate for investors who want an investment for a non-registered account. It may not be suitable for investors who want an investment for a registered plan (e.g. RRSPs, RRIFs, LIFs, LIRAs, LRIFs, PRIFs, LRSPs, RDSPs, RESPs, TFSA, FHSA, RLSPs and RLIFs).

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

What does the Fund invest in?

The Fund invests in a diversified mix of mutual funds and exchange-traded funds. Most of the underlying funds invest primarily in common shares and other equity securities, and the remainder invest primarily in fixed-income securities. To reduce the impact of exchange-rate fluctuations, ordinarily derivatives are used to hedge approximately half of the Fund's foreign-currency exposure, though active decisions may be made to increase or decrease this hedge.

What does the Fund invest in?

The Fund invests in a diversified mix of mutual funds and exchange-traded funds. Most of the underlying funds invest primarily in common shares and other equity securities, and the remainder invest primarily in fixed-income securities. To reduce the impact of exchange-rate fluctuations, ordinarily derivatives are used to hedge approximately half of the Fund's foreign-currency exposure, though active decisions may be made to increase or decrease this hedge.

The charts below give you a snapshot of the Fund's investments on May 31, 2023. The Fund's investments will change.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Low to medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco Intactive Growth Portfolio - Series F

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series F units of the Fund have performed over the past 10 years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series F units of the Fund performed in each of the past 10 years. The Fund dropped in value in three of the 10 years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series F units of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	13.3%	June 30, 2020	Your investment would rise to $1,133
Worst return	-18.9%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $811

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series F units of the Fund 10 years ago now has $1,499. This works out to an annual compound return of 4.13%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want capital appreciation over the long term
- Are willing to accept some fluctuations in the value of the portfolio over the short-to-medium term
- Are looking for a well-diversified investment
- Are comfortable with low to medium risk

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series F units of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

There are no sales charges for Series F units of the Fund.

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series F were 1.02% of the value of this series. This equals $10.20 for every $1,000 invested.

More about the trailing commission

Invesco Canada Ltd. does not pay trailing commissions in respect of Series F units of the Fund.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series F units of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Investment advisory fee	If you hold this series of units in a fee-based account at your representative's firm, your representative's firm may charge you an investment advisory fee which you negotiate with your representative. Invesco Canada Ltd. may have an arrangement with your representative's firm to collect the investment advisory fee (plus any applicable taxes) from you on behalf of your representative's firm. Where such an arrangement exists, the maximum annual investment advisory fee that we will collect from you is 1.50% (excluding applicable taxes) and the fee (plus any applicable taxes) is collected by redeeming some of the units you own of the Fund.
Fees for services	If you hold this series of units in an account with a dealer that does not make a suitability determination, such as a discount broker, your dealer may charge you fees when you buy, switch, and/or redeem such units. You should confirm these fees with your dealer.

What does the Fund invest in?

The Fund invests in a diversified mix of mutual funds and exchange-traded funds. Most of the underlying funds invest primarily in common shares and other equity securities, and the remainder invest primarily in fixed-income securities. To reduce the impact of exchange-rate fluctuations, ordinarily derivatives are used to hedge approximately half of the Fund's foreign-currency exposure, though active decisions may be made to increase or decrease this hedge.

The charts below give you a snapshot of the Fund's investments on May 31, 2023. The Fund's investments will change.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Low to medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco Intactive Growth Portfolio - Series T4

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series T4 units of the Fund have performed over the past 10 years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series T4 units of the Fund performed in each of the past 10 years. The Fund dropped in value in three of the 10 years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series T4 units of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	12.9%	June 30, 2020	Your investment would rise to $1,129
Worst return	-19.2%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $808

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series T4 units of the Fund 10 years ago now has $1,324. This works out to an annual compound return of 2.84%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want capital appreciation over the long term
- Are willing to accept some fluctuations in the value of the portfolio over the short-to-medium term
- Are looking for a well-diversified investment
- Are comfortable with low to medium risk

Series T4 is appropriate for investors who want to receive regular distributions.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series T4 units of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

You may pay a sales charge when you buy Series T4 units of the Fund.

Sales charge option	What you pay		How it works
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	0% to 5% of the amount you pay	$0 to $50 on every $1,000 you pay	■ You and your representative decide on the rate ■ The initial sales charge is deducted from the amount you pay. It goes to your representative's firm as a commission

Invesco Intactive Growth Portfolio - Series T4

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series T4 were 2.51% of the value of this series. This equals $25.10 for every $1,000 invested.

	Annual rate (as a % of the Fund's value)
Management expense ratio (MER) This is the total of the Fund's management fee (which includes the trailing commission) and operating expenses. Invesco Canada Ltd. waived some of the Fund's expenses. If it had not done so, the MER would have been higher.	2.41%
Trading expense ratio (TER) This is the Fund's trading costs.	0.10%
Fund expenses	2.51%

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.50% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.50% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

¹ 1.00% after seven years. ² 1.00% after four years.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series T4 units of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the units you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

What if I change my mind?

Under securities law in some provinces and territories, you have the right to:

- withdraw from an agreement to buy mutual funds within two business days after you receive a simplified prospectus or Fund Facts document,

or

- cancel your purchase within 48 hours after you receive confirmation of the purchase.

In some provinces and territories, you also have the right to cancel a purchase or, in some jurisdictions, claim damages if the simplified prospectus, Fund Facts document or financial statements contain a misrepresentation. You must act within the time limit set by the securities legislation in your province or territory.

For more information, see the securities law of your province or territory or ask a lawyer.

We will switch your Series A shares into Series P shares of the Fund, which have a lower annual management and advisory fee, once your investment amount in related Invesco accounts meets the Private Investor Series eligibility requirement of $100,000. The annual fee decrease from Series A to Series P is 0.10%. If you no longer meet the eligibility requirements for Series P, we will switch your shares back into Series A shares. See "Purchases, switches and redemptions" in the Fund's simplified prospectus and speak to your representative for additional details.

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.50% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.50% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

¹ 1.00% after seven years. ² 1.00% after four years.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series A shares of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the shares you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Low to medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco Intactive Growth Portfolio Class - Series F

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series F shares of the Fund have performed over the past 10 years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series F shares of the Fund performed in each of the past 10 years. The Fund dropped in value in three of the 10 years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series F shares of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	13.3%	June 30, 2020	Your investment would rise to $1,133
Worst return	-18.9%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $811

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series F shares of the Fund 10 years ago now has $1,489. This works out to an annual compound return of 4.06%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want capital appreciation over the long term
- Are willing to accept some fluctuations in the value of the portfolio over the short-to-medium term
- Are looking for a well-diversified investment
- Are comfortable with low to medium risk

The Fund is most appropriate for investors who want an investment for a non-registered account. It may not be suitable for investors who want an investment for a registered plan (e.g. RRSPs, RRIFs, LIFs, LIRAs, LRIFs, PRIFs, LRSPs, RDSPs, RESPs, TFSA, FHSA, RLSPs and RLIFs).

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series F shares of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

There are no sales charges for Series F shares of the Fund.

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series F were 1.18% of the value of this series. This equals $11.80 for every $1,000 invested.

More about the trailing commission

Invesco Canada Ltd. does not pay trailing commissions in respect of Series F shares of the Fund.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series F shares of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Investment advisory fee	If you hold this series of shares in a fee-based account at your representative's firm, your representative's firm may charge you an investment advisory fee which you negotiate with your representative. Invesco Canada Ltd. may have an arrangement with your representative's firm to collect the investment advisory fee (plus any applicable taxes) from you on behalf of your representative's firm. Where such an arrangement exists, the maximum annual investment advisory fee that we will collect from you is 1.50% (excluding applicable taxes) and the fee (plus any applicable taxes) is collected by redeeming some of the shares you own of the Fund.
Fees for services	If you hold this series of shares in an account with a dealer that does not make a suitability determination, such as a discount broker, your dealer may charge you fees when you buy, switch, and/or redeem such shares. You should confirm these fees with your dealer.

What if I change my mind?

Under securities law in some provinces and territories, you have the right to:

- withdraw from an agreement to buy mutual funds within two business days after you receive a simplified prospectus or Fund Facts document,

or

- cancel your purchase within 48 hours after you receive confirmation of the purchase.

In some provinces and territories, you also have the right to cancel a purchase or, in some jurisdictions, claim damages if the simplified prospectus, Fund Facts document or financial statements contain a misrepresentation. How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Low to medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco Intactive Growth Portfolio Class - Series PT4

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series PT4 shares of the Fund have performed over the past five years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series PT4 shares of the Fund performed in each of the past five years. The Fund dropped in value in two of the five years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series PT4 shares of the Fund in a three-month period over the past five years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	12.9%	June 30, 2020	Your investment would rise to $1,129
Worst return	-19.1%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $809

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series PT4 shares of the Fund at its inception now has $1,071. This works out to an annual compound return of 1.25%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want capital appreciation over the long term
- Are willing to accept some fluctuations in the value of the portfolio over the short-to-medium term
- Are looking for a well-diversified investment
- Are comfortable with low to medium risk

Series PT4 is appropriate for investors who want to receive regular distributions.

The Fund is most appropriate for investors who want an investment for a non-registered account. It may not be suitable for investors who want an investment for a registered plan (e.g. RRSPs, RRIFs, LIFs, LIRAs, LRIFs, PRIFs, LRSPs, RDSPs, RESPs, TFSA, FHSA, RLSPs and RLIFs).

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series PT4 shares of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

Invesco Intactive Growth Portfolio Class - Series PT4

1. Sales charges

You may pay a sales charge when you buy Series PT4 shares of the Fund.

Sales charge option	What you pay		How it works
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	0% to 5% of the amount you pay	$0 to $50 on every $1,000 you pay	■ You and your representative decide on the rate ■ The initial sales charge is deducted from the amount you pay. It goes to your representative's firm as a commission

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series PT4 were 2.33% of the value of this series. This equals $23.30 for every $1,000 invested.

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.50% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.50% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

¹ 1.00% after seven years. ² 1.00% after four years.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series PT4 shares of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the shares you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Low to medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco Intactive Growth Portfolio Class - Series T6

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series T6 shares of the Fund have performed over the past 10 years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series T6 shares of the Fund performed in each of the past 10 years. The Fund dropped in value in three of the 10 years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series T6 shares of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	12.9%	June 30, 2020	Your investment would rise to $1,129
Worst return	-19.1%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $809

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series T6 shares of the Fund 10 years ago now has $1,327. This works out to an annual compound return of 2.87%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want capital appreciation over the long term
- Are willing to accept some fluctuations in the value of the portfolio over the short-to-medium term
- Are looking for a well-diversified investment
- Are comfortable with low to medium risk

Series T6 is appropriate for investors who want to receive regular distributions.

The Fund is most appropriate for investors who want an investment for a non-registered account. It may not be suitable for investors who want an investment for a registered plan (e.g. RRSPs, RRIFs, LIFs, LIRAs, LRIFs, PRIFs, LRSPs, RDSPs, RESPs, TFSA, FHSA, RLSPs and RLIFs).

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series T6 shares of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

Invesco Intactive Growth Portfolio Class - Series T6

1. Sales charges

You may pay a sales charge when you buy Series T6 shares of the Fund.

Sales charge option	What you pay		How it works
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	0% to 5% of the amount you pay	$0 to $50 on every $1,000 you pay	■ You and your representative decide on the rate ■ The initial sales charge is deducted from the amount you pay. It goes to your representative's firm as a commission

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series T6 were 2.51% of the value of this series. This equals $25.10 for every $1,000 invested.

We will switch your Series T6 shares into Series PT6 shares of the Fund, which have a lower annual management and advisory fee, once your investment amount in related Invesco accounts meets the Private Investor Series eligibility requirement of $100,000. The annual fee decrease from Series T6 to Series PT6 is 0.10%. If you no longer meet the eligibility requirements for Series PT6, we will switch your shares back into Series T6 shares. See "Purchases, switches and redemptions" in the Fund's simplified prospectus and speak to your representative for additional details.

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.50% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.50% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

¹ 1.00% after seven years. ² 1.00% after four years.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series T6 shares of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the shares you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

This section tells you how Series F units of the Fund have performed over the past 10 years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series F units of the Fund performed in each of the past 10 years. The Fund dropped in value in three of the 10 years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series F units of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	14.6%	June 30, 2020	Your investment would rise to $1,146
Worst return	-22.2%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $778

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series F units of the Fund 10 years ago now has $1,635. This works out to an annual compound return of 5.04%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want capital appreciation over the long term
- Are willing to accept some fluctuations in the value of the portfolio over the short-to-medium term
- Are looking for a well-diversified investment
- Are comfortable with medium risk

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series F units of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

There are no sales charges for Series F units of the Fund.

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series F were 1.10% of the value of this series. This equals $11.00 for every $1,000 invested.

More about the trailing commission

Invesco Canada Ltd. does not pay trailing commissions in respect of Series F units of the Fund.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series F units of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Investment advisory fee	If you hold this series of units in a fee-based account at your representative's firm, your representative's firm may charge you an investment advisory fee which you negotiate with your representative. Invesco Canada Ltd. may have an arrangement with your representative's firm to collect the investment advisory fee (plus any applicable taxes) from you on behalf of your representative's firm. Where such an arrangement exists, the maximum annual investment advisory fee that we will collect from you is 1.50% (excluding applicable taxes) and the fee (plus any applicable taxes) is collected by redeeming some of the units you own of the Fund.
Fees for services	If you hold this series of units in an account with a dealer that does not make a suitability determination, such as a discount broker, your dealer may charge you fees when you buy, switch, and/or redeem such units. You should confirm these fees with your dealer.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco Intactive Maximum Growth Portfolio - Series T6

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series T6 units of the Fund have performed over the past 10 years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series T6 units of the Fund performed in each of the past 10 years. The Fund dropped in value in three of the 10 years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series T6 units of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	14.2%	June 30, 2020	Your investment would rise to $1,142
Worst return	-22.4%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $776

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series T6 units of the Fund 10 years ago now has $1,429. This works out to an annual compound return of 3.63%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want capital appreciation over the long term
- Are willing to accept some fluctuations in the value of the portfolio over the short-to-medium term
- Are looking for a well-diversified investment
- Are comfortable with medium risk

Series T6 is appropriate for investors who want to receive regular distributions.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series T6 units of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

You may pay a sales charge when you buy Series T6 units of the Fund.

Sales charge option	What you pay		How it works
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	0% to 5% of the amount you pay	$0 to $50 on every $1,000 you pay	■ You and your representative decide on the rate ■ The initial sales charge is deducted from the amount you pay. It goes to your representative's firm as a commission

Invesco Intactive Maximum Growth Portfolio - Series T6

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series T6 were 2.61% of the value of this series. This equals $26.10 for every $1,000 invested.

	Annual rate (as a % of the Fund's value)
Management expense ratio (MER) This is the total of the Fund's management fee (which includes the trailing commission) and operating expenses.	2.48%
Trading expense ratio (TER) This is the Fund's trading costs.	0.13%
Fund expenses	2.61%

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.50% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.50% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

¹ 1.00% after seven years. ² 1.00% after four years.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series T6 units of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the units you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

What if I change my mind?

Under securities law in some provinces and territories, you have the right to:

- withdraw from an agreement to buy mutual funds within two business days after you receive a simplified prospectus or Fund Facts document,

or

- cancel your purchase within 48 hours after you receive confirmation of the purchase.

In some provinces and territories, you also have the right to cancel a purchase or, in some jurisdictions, claim damages if the simplified prospectus, Fund Facts document or financial statements contain a misrepresentation. You must act within the time limit set by the securities legislation in your province or territory.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco Intactive Maximum Growth Portfolio Class - Series P

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series P shares of the Fund have performed over the past 10 years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series P shares of the Fund performed in each of the past 10 years. The Fund dropped in value in three of the 10 years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series P shares of the Fund in a three-month period over the past 10 years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	14.2%	June 30, 2020	Your investment would rise to $1,142
Worst return	-22.2%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $778

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series P shares of the Fund 10 years ago now has $1,486. This works out to an annual compound return of 4.04%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want capital appreciation over the long term
- Are willing to accept some fluctuations in the value of the portfolio over the short-to-medium term
- Are looking for a well-diversified investment
- Are comfortable with medium risk

The Fund is most appropriate for investors who want an investment for a non-registered account. It may not be suitable for investors who want an investment for a registered plan (e.g. RRSPs, RRIFs, LIFs, LIRAs, LRIFs, PRIFs, LRSPs, RDSPs, RESPs, TFSA, FHSA, RLSPs and RLIFs).

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series P shares of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

Invesco Intactive Maximum Growth Portfolio Class - Series P

1. Sales charges

You may pay a sales charge when you buy Series P shares of the Fund.

Sales charge option	What you pay		How it works
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	0% to 5% of the amount you pay	$0 to $50 on every $1,000 you pay	■ You and your representative decide on the rate ■ The initial sales charge is deducted from the amount you pay. It goes to your representative's firm as a commission

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of March 31, 2023, the expenses of Series P were 2.29% of the value of this series. This equals $22.90 for every $1,000 invested.

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.50% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.50% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

¹ 1.00% after seven years. ² 1.00% after four years.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series P shares of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the shares you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

We will switch your Series T6 shares into Series PT6 shares of the Fund, which have a lower annual management and advisory fee, once your investment amount in related Invesco accounts meets the Private Investor Series eligibility requirement of $100,000. The annual fee decrease from Series T6 to Series PT6 is 0.10%. If you no longer meet the eligibility requirements for Series PT6, we will switch your shares back into Series T6 shares. See "Purchases, switches and redemptions" in the Fund's simplified prospectus and speak to your representative for additional details.

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate depends on the sales charge option you choose.

Sales charge option	Amount of trailing commission
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Deferred Sales Charge	0.50% ¹ of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Low Load	1.00% of the value of your investment each year	This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.
Lower Load 4	0.50% ² of the value of your investment each year	This equals $5.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

¹ 1.00% after seven years. ² 1.00% after four years.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series T6 shares of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the shares you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

What does the Fund invest in?

The Fund invests in a diversified mix of exchange-traded funds and/or mutual funds. These ETFs and mutual funds invest primarily in fixed-income and/or other debt securities. For additional diversification and growth potential, the Fund also invests, to a lesser degree, in ETFs and mutual funds that invest primarily in equity securities. The Fund uses strategic asset allocation to allocate assets among ETFs and/or mutual funds. The strategic asset allocation is currently 20% equities and 80% fixed-income. It is expected that a substantial majority of the Fund's holdings will be ETFs rather than actively managed funds.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Low.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

Low	Low to medium	Medium	Medium to high	High

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco Conservative ETF Portfolio - Series A

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series A units of the Fund have performed over the past five years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series A units of the Fund performed in each of the past five years. The Fund dropped in value in two of the five years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series A units of the Fund in a three-month period over the past five years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	6.3%	June 30, 2020	Your investment would rise to $1,063
Worst return	-7.7%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $923

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series A units of the Fund at its inception now has $1,022. This works out to an annual compound return of 0.38%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want to generate income and modest capital appreciation over the long term
- Are looking for a well diversified investment with exposure to multiple asset classes in a single portfolio
- Want exposure to lower cost passive and factor-based ETFs
- Are comfortable with low risk

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series A units of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

You may pay a sales charge when you buy Series A units of the Fund.

Sales charge option	What you pay		How it works
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	0% to 5% of the amount you pay	$0 to $50 on every $1,000 you pay	■ You and your representative decide on the rate ■ The initial sales charge is deducted from the amount you pay. It goes to your representative's firm as a commission

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of December 31, 2022, the expenses of Series A were 1.75% of the value of this series. This equals $17.50 for every $1,000 invested.

	Annual rate (as a % of the Fund's value)

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate of the trailing commission for this series of the Fund is 1.00% of the value of your investment each year. This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series A units of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the units you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

What does the Fund invest in?

The Fund invests primarily in a diversified mix of exchange-traded funds and/or mutual funds. These ETFs and mutual funds invest primarily in equity securities or in fixed-income and/or other debt securities. The Fund has a bias towards investing in equity ETFs and mutual funds, and uses strategic asset allocation to allocate assets among such ETFs and/or mutual funds. The strategic asset allocation is currently 60% equities and 40% fixed-income. It is expected that a substantial majority of the Fund's holdings will be ETFs rather than actively managed funds.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Low to medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco Balanced ETF Portfolio - Series A

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series A units of the Fund have performed over the past five years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series A units of the Fund performed in each of the past five years. The Fund dropped in value in two of the five years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series A units of the Fund in a three-month period over the past five years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	8.2%	January 31, 2021	Your investment would rise to $1,082
Worst return	-13.8%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $862

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series A units of the Fund at its inception now has $1,142. This works out to an annual compound return of 2.40%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want a balanced portfolio that will emphasize capital appreciation over the long term
- Are looking for a well diversified investment with exposure to multiple asset classes in a single portfolio
- Want exposure to lower cost passive and factor-based ETFs
- Are comfortable with low to medium risk

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series A units of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

You may pay a sales charge when you buy Series A units of the Fund.

Sales charge option	What you pay		How it works
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	0% to 5% of the amount you pay	$0 to $50 on every $1,000 you pay	■ You and your representative decide on the rate ■ The initial sales charge is deducted from the amount you pay. It goes to your representative's firm as a commission

Invesco Balanced ETF Portfolio - Series A

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of December 31, 2022, the expenses of Series A were 1.83% of the value of this series. This equals $18.30 for every $1,000 invested.

	Annual rate (as a % of the Fund's value)
Management expense ratio (MER) This is the total of the Fund's management fee (which includes the trailing commission) and operating expenses.	1.77%
Trading expense ratio (TER) This is the Fund's trading costs.	0.06%
Fund expenses	1.83%

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate of the trailing commission for this series of the Fund is 1.00% of the value of your investment each year. This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series A units of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the units you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

What if I change my mind?

Under securities law in some provinces and territories, you have the right to:

- withdraw from an agreement to buy mutual funds within two business days after you receive a simplified prospectus or Fund Facts document,

or

What does the Fund invest in?

The Fund invests primarily in a diversified mix of exchange-traded funds and/or mutual funds. These ETFs and mutual funds invest primarily in equity securities. For additional stability and diversification, the Fund also invests, to a lesser degree, in ETFs and/or mutual funds that invest primarily in fixed-income and/or other debt securities. The Fund uses strategic asset allocation to allocate assets among ETFs and/or mutual funds. The strategic asset allocation is currently 75% equities and 25% fixed-income. It is expected that a substantial majority of the Fund's holdings will be ETFs rather than actively managed funds.

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Low to medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

Invesco Growth ETF Portfolio - Series A

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series A units of the Fund have performed over the past five years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series A units of the Fund performed in each of the past five years. The Fund dropped in value in two of the five years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series A units of the Fund in a three-month period over the past five years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	10.2%	January 31, 2021	Your investment would rise to $1,102
Worst return	-16.4%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $836

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series A units of the Fund at its inception now has $1,197. This works out to an annual compound return of 3.27%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want to generate capital appreciation and modest income over the long term
- Are looking for a well diversified investment with exposure to multiple asset classes in a single portfolio
- Want exposure to lower cost passive and factor-based ETFs
- Are comfortable with low to medium risk

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series A units of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

You may pay a sales charge when you buy Series A units of the Fund.

Sales charge option	What you pay		How it works
	In per cent (%)	In dollars ($)
Initial Sales Charge	0% to 5% of the amount you pay	$0 to $50 on every $1,000 you pay	■ You and your representative decide on the rate ■ The initial sales charge is deducted from the amount you pay. It goes to your representative's firm as a commission

Invesco Growth ETF Portfolio - Series A

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of December 31, 2022, the expenses of Series A were 1.87% of the value of this series. This equals $18.70 for every $1,000 invested.

	Annual rate (as a % of the Fund's value)
Management expense ratio (MER) This is the total of the Fund's management fee (which includes the trailing commission) and operating expenses.	1.80%
Trading expense ratio (TER) This is the Fund's trading costs.	0.07%
Fund expenses	1.87%

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the Fund. It is for the services and advice that your representative and their firm provide to you. Invesco Canada Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the Fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The rate of the trailing commission for this series of the Fund is 1.00% of the value of your investment each year. This equals $10.00 each year for every $1,000 invested.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series A units of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Switch fee	Your representative's firm may charge you a fee of up to 2% of the value of the units you switch to another Invesco Canada Fund. You and your representative negotiate the fee.

What if I change my mind?

Under securities law in some provinces and territories, you have the right to:

- withdraw from an agreement to buy mutual funds within two business days after you receive a simplified prospectus or Fund Facts document,

or

- cancel your purchase within 48 hours after you receive confirmation of the purchase.

In some provinces and territories, you also have the right to cancel a purchase or, in some jurisdictions, claim damages if the simplified prospectus, Fund Facts document or financial statements contain a misrepresentation. You must act within the time limit set by the securities legislation in your province or territory.

For more information, see the securities law of your province or territory or ask a lawyer.

Before you invest in any fund, consider how the fund would work with your other investments and your tolerance for risk.

This Fund is an alternative mutual fund. It has the ability to invest in asset classes or use investment strategies that are not permitted for conventional mutual funds. The specific strategies that differentiate this Fund from conventional mutual funds include: increased exposure to commodities and use of derivatives for hedging and non-hedging purposes. While these strategies will be used in accordance with the Fund's investment objectives and strategies, during certain market conditions they may accelerate the pace at which your investment decreases in value.

What does the Fund invest in?

The Fund invests, directly or indirectly, in a diversified portfolio of equity securities, fixed-income securities and commodities located anywhere in the world. The investment portfolio is built with a focus on economic diversification, balancing risk so the portfolio has the potential to perform well in various economic environments. The Fund may invest, directly or indirectly, more than 10% of its net asset value in commodities. The Fund may use leverage. The leverage will be created through the use of derivative contracts. The Fund's leverage must not exceed 250% of the Fund's net asset value. The leverage will be calculated in accordance with the methodology prescribed by securities regulations, or any exemptions therefrom.

The charts below give you a snapshot of the Fund's investments on May 31, 2023. The Fund's investments will change. Futures contract positions will be reflected as (i) the maximum exposure to the underlying interest of that derivative for the purpose of determining the Fund's top 10 investments, and (ii) unrealized gains or losses for the purpose of determining the Fund's investment mix. The Fund's holdings in Canadian Treasury bills, Canadian Dollar Cash Management Fund, cash and cash equivalents are used as, or otherwise available to be used as, collateral to support the Fund's derivatives positions.

Invesco Balanced-Risk Allocation Pool - Series F

How risky is it?

The value of the Fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge the risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility."

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

Invesco Canada Ltd. has rated the volatility of this Fund as Low to medium.

This rating is based on how much the Fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the Fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the Fund's returns, see the What are the specific risks of investing in a mutual fund? section of the Fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this Fund doesn't have any guarantees. You may not get back the amount of money you invest.

How has the Fund performed?

This section tells you how Series F units of the Fund have performed over the past five years. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the Fund's returns. Commencing July 18, 2017 (the "Private Start Date"), Series F units of the Fund were sold via private placement. On November 4, 2022 (the "RI Date"), the Fund became a reporting issuer ("RI") by prospectus clearing its units. The Fund was not an RI from the Private Start Date to the RI Date (the "Private Period"). As part of the prospectus qualification, the Fund changed its investment objectives and became subject to additional regulatory requirements applicable to an RI (the "RI Rules"). These changes did not affect the manner in which the Fund is managed. Invesco Canada Ltd. obtained relief on behalf of the Fund to allow disclosure of Fund performance data from the Private Start Date. The Fund's expenses during the Private Period would have been higher had the Fund been subject to the RI Rules.

Year-by-year returns

This chart shows how Series F units of the Fund performed in each of the past five years. The Fund dropped in value in two of the five years. The range of returns and change from year to year can help you assess how risky the Fund has been in the past. It does not tell you how the Fund will perform in the future.

Best and worst three-month returns

This table shows the best and worst returns for the Series F units of the Fund in a three-month period over the past five years. The best and worst three-month returns could be higher or lower in the future. Consider how much of a loss you could afford to take in a short period of time.

	Return	Three months ending	If you invested $1,000 at the beginning of the period
Best return	12.3%	January 31, 2021	Your investment would rise to $1,123
Worst return	-13.1%	March 31, 2020	Your investment would drop to $869

Average return

A person who invested $1,000 in Series F units of the Fund at its inception now has $1,140. This works out to an annual compound return of 2.25%.

Who is this Fund for?

Investors who:

- Want capital growth over the long term
- Are seeking an alternative mutual fund that provides exposure to stocks, bonds and commodities, using a risk-balanced approach
- Own, or plan to own, other types of investments to diversify their holdings
- Want an economically diversified investment
- Are comfortable with low to medium risk

The Fund is not appropriate if you have a short-term investment horizon.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a registered retirement savings plan or a tax-free savings account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series F units of the Fund. The fees and expenses, including any commissions, can vary among series of a fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

There are no sales charges for Series F units of the Fund.

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the Fund's returns.

As of December 31, 2022, the expenses of Series F were 1.36% of the value of this series. This equals $13.60 for every $1,000 invested.

	Annual rate (as a % of the Fund's value)
Management expense ratio (MER) This is the total of the Fund's management fee and operating expenses. Invesco Canada Ltd. waived some of the Fund's expenses. If it had not done so, the MER would have been higher.	1.32%

More about the trailing commission

Invesco Canada Ltd. does not pay trailing commissions in respect of Series F units of the Fund.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch Series F units of the Fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	If you redeem or switch within 30 days of purchase, Invesco Canada Ltd. reserves the right to charge, on behalf of the Fund, a short-term trading fee of 2% on top of any other fees that may apply.
Investment advisory fee	If you hold this series of units in a fee-based account at your representative's firm, your representative's firm may charge you an investment advisory fee which you negotiate with your representative. Invesco Canada Ltd. may have an arrangement with your representative's firm to collect the investment advisory fee (plus any applicable taxes) from you on behalf of your representative's firm. Where such an arrangement exists, the maximum annual investment advisory fee that we will collect from you is 1.50% (excluding applicable taxes) and the fee (plus any applicable taxes) is collected by redeeming some of the units you own of the Fund.
Fees for services	If you hold this series of units in an account with a dealer that does not make a suitability determination, such as a discount broker, your dealer may charge you fees when you buy, switch, and/or redeem such units. You should confirm these fees with your dealer.
